Today, the joker must cross the name of First street from the list of subjects suitable for springing moth-cater attempts of witicism. The thoroughfare, which has been for months the cause of an unending series of busted auto springs and has set flowing a string of language that has been calculated to keep the recording angel working overtime, emerges from its condition of dilapidation. As the evening sun sinks in the west, its last rays will gladden from a smooth surface of tar-bound, tar-sealed macadam that will delight the autoist's eye and make him feel that patience the thoroughfare of ly preferable to it for traveling over.

HEAVY GUARD AS SIMS LANDS

NEW YORK, June 22.—Rear Admiral Sims returned home today to explain to Secretary Denby remarks attributed to him in his recent London speech on Irish-Americans.

Refusing to be taken ashore by a cutter, he came up the bay aboard the liner Olympic to meet friends or foes who might be awaiting him near the pier.

Everything was peaceful when he landed. A thousand bluecoats were massed on the dock to preserve order.
Indeed, they were so numerous that,
with wharf workers and passengers, it would have been difficult for many other persons to have found foothold on the pier.

Police lines were drawn several blocks north and south of the pier entrance. Not even when Woodrow Wilson returned from the peace conference were more thorough preparations made.

The admiral was the first person to step ashore, into an automobile with Rear Admiral Huse, commandant of the third naval district.
Planked by police, he drove away, announcing he would take the first train for Washington.

There were scarcely anyone on the dock. From the handful of persons who had gathered there came neither cheers nor taunts. Among those who met the admiral was his brother.

Closing Day of Graduation Exercises in Lowell Grammar Schools—Four More Large Classes Receive Diplomas

GRADUATION CLASS OF THE WASHINGTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The grammar school graduation session in Lowell for 1921 came to a close today when four more schools sent forth large classes of young people.
Typical graduation weather was previded for the occasion and large audiences of friends and relatives of the graduates attended the interesting and elaborate programs arranged for the occasion.

This morning at 8.30 the Morey school held its closing exercises while this afternoon the Moody, Riverside and Washington school sent out large classes. One of the largest classes graduated today was that of the Washington school where a class of 67 regular course graduates and three postgraduates completed their grammar school careers.

The diplomas were presented at this school by James C. Warner of the school committee. The program of ex-found on Vanzetti at the time of his arrest three weeks after the mur-agreed by defense and prosecution that the two others would not be submitted because they were not in the condition in which they were found, through no fault on either side. Defense counsel agreed to make no argument in the fact that the state had not produced in court arrest. The jury was instructed to weapon in connection with the case.

Chamber Plans Aggressive Campaign to Put the

The adoption by the voters of Lowell of the recommendation of the chamber of commerce that street paving hereafter be done in this city only by contract will not mean the virtual wiping out of the street department as contended at yesterday's meeting of the municipal council. It was vigorously asserted by chamber of commerce officials today.

"There will be plenty of work to take up the time and equipment of the street department in repair jobs alone even though all construction and reconstruction work is let out by contract," said Secretary-Manager George F. Wells in discussing yesterday's action of the municipal council in referring the chamber's petition to a special election in August. "A trip over a few of our streets will convince anybody of that. The chamber's petition does not seek to have repair work done by contract. It leaves that to the province of the regular employees of the street department. We believe there is enough repair work to be done on streets in a city of Lowell's size to keep the personnel and equipment of our street department working at full capacity."

LEWIS BOOM TAKES SLUMP

Ladies' Garment Workers Switch Their 941 Votes to President Gompers

Others Desert Lewis—Gompers Boomers Predict Overwhelming Victory

DENVER, Colo., June 22.—The boom of John L. Lewis for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor today took a slump.

Under instructions from their executive board, the delegates of the Ladies' Garment Workers switched their 941 votes from the mine workers' president to Samuel Gompers.

The three delegates of the United Mine Workers commanding 1595 votes were also reported to have deserted their leader for Gompers.
Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers' district, who has already announced his opposition to Lewis, was reported on his way back to Denver from Illinois, where he had been called on business.

While the Lewis supporters admitted that their own delegation would be split, they claimed sufficient votes had been pledged by the metal trades, the railroad organizations which together with the machinists' union and the carpenters and joiners, would elect their candidate. Their lineup gave them approximately 20,000 of the 38,204 votes in the convention.

The Gompers boomers declared that they were sure of at least 30,000 votes—nearly 10,000 more than needed to win.

Labor leaders declare that the contest may be so close that the 214 votes of the state central bodies, trade and federal labor unions and fraternal organizations may decide the winner.

While campaigners of both candidates were at work, the Irish question was before the convention and a bitter fight was being waged by a group of Irish sympathizers to have a resolution adopted providing for a boycott of American organized labor of British-made products and British concerns. They were opposed by another group whose resolution expressing sympathy for the Irish cause, was reported favorably by the resolutions committee.

Unknown Species of Feather

Family Given Freedom of the Wilds

After stirring the ecologists, animal lovers and mystery-fetters of all Lowell, as they have never before, the stirred, and after making it necessary for Agent Charles Richardson of the Lowell Humane society to answer more questions than have been answered in all the cities and towns of Massachusetts, the strange raw-meat-eating, ferocious and unknown bird captured in the Highlands district a few days ago has been released to his native swamps, trees, or whatever form of open country he craves.

In a story published yesterday by The Sun, the first news of the finding of this curious creature was given to the people of Lowell. Immediately a storm of argument, theorizing, query-ing and other intellectual excitement was aroused, with Agent Richardson, the possessor of the bird, the centre of it all. Hardly had the first edition of The Sun reached the street yesterday afternoon, when a deluge of telephone calls, personal interviews and other forms of communication started coming in at the Humane society headquarters and at the Jenner street residence of Mr. Richardson. One student of the habits of the feathered bird called up and said he'd hold the bird while Agent Richardson went out into his garage, where the bird was confined, to ascertain if the creature had webbed feet. "If he has webbed feet," announced this party, "he is a loon."
In fact, I'm sure he's a loon." But it so happens that the bird didn't have webbed feet.

A lady connected with the Audubon society, devoted to the study of birds, insisted that the animal was a bittern.
But bitterns are biter, than this creature, says Agent Richardson, who has seen many of them. Perhaps a description of the bird may help to identify him, and solve the mystery. He had a tiny body, with enormous wings, having a sweep of three feet, a bill a foot long, a neck that reared into his shoulders, hairs on top of his head which stood erect when he felt peevish —and he ate raw meat, half a pound at a sitting, or rather at a standing. For he was never observed to sit.
Yesterday he also showed a fondness for fish, but raw meat seemed his favorite dish.

Just prior to noon today he was tak-

CHARGED WITH LOOTING STRAWBERRY PATCH

Five local boys, ranging from 8 to 11 years of age, will be in the juvenile session of the police court on Friday charged with looting a strawberry patch, the property of a prominent Lowell resident. This was given out at headquarters this morning. "This invasion of people's premises, with the trampling down of growing things, and the theft of fruits and vegetables,
is going to stop," declared a high police official. He stated that the authorities would not be satisfied if restitution were made but that more rigorous measures would be sought. It is hoped that vigorous prosecution of lawless and malicious youngsters who slich from gardens which have received long and arduous attention from their owners, may act as a deterrent in future instances. Only a few days ago complaint was made that cherry trees were being denuded of their succulent fruit by urchins regardless of the rights of their possessors. In the present case, each of the five alleged youths, culprits is said to have taken unto himself large quantities of strawberries, to the wrath of the owner, who had felt great pride in his patch.

Memorial services for the late Judge Charles S. Lilley were held this afternoon at the police court by the members of the Lowell Bar association. Resolutions were presented by a committee headed by Judge John J. Pick-man, and numbering also the following: Attorneys Francis W. Qua, John J. Harvey, James H. Carmichael and J. J. Kerwin.

A number of eloquent tributes were paid to the memory of the deceased by Francis W. Qua, James H. Carmichael, James J. Kerwin, Charles H. McIntyre, and Frederic A. Fisher. In conclusion Judge Thomas R. Enright, who presided as president of the association, spoke at length of Judge Lilley.
A portrait of the deceased was temporarily hung upon the wall of the courtroom during the services.

SUPERIOR COURT

Civil Session of Superior Court Closed Today

The civil session of the superior court with jury, which was being held at the local courthouse, was brought to a close this morning, when the case of Francis R. Nicolls, special administrator of the estate of Gerald Lane vs.
George Adams, et al., an action of tort in the sum of $10,000, which was started yesterday, was continued until the next sitting of the court.
Justice Hammond, who presided over the session, announced that for the next couple of days he will hear motions and Friday morning at 10 o'clock he will return to the courthouse to attend the memorial for the late James

Brilliant Scene at Belfast

The ceremony of the opening was similar to that attending the inauguration of the British parliament at Westminster, and was a brilliant spectacle. There was but little room in the city hall, where the function took place, for those having cards of admission, but it was a distinguished assembly that watched an event regarded whatever may follow it, as marking an important epoch in Irish history.
Sinn Fein and nationalist members of the parliament did not participate in the exercises.

From the moment their yacht, Victoria and Albert dropped her anchor at the entrance to Belfast Lough to make her way up the straight channel to the dock, the king and the queen were the objects of enthusiastic demonstrations by the loyalists of Ulster. The people of County Down on the south side of the lough and County Antrim on the northern shore, vied in extending greetings.

royal pair as their yacht steamed past the shipyards, where the cheers of thousands of workmen mingled with the shrieks of steam and whistle. King George and his consort stood on the bridge of the steamer and acknowledged the greetings.

SENATORS OF SOUTHERN IRELAND ASK NEM PLAN

LONDON, June 22. (By A. P.)—The senators of Southern Ireland have sent a memorial to Premier Lloyd George asking that the Home Rule Bill be suspended.

"Having been elected to serve in the Senate in Southern Ireland, we desire to place on record in accepting such appointment that we do so with the intention of exercising the fullest freedom of action regarding the powers to be hereafter granted the parliament and government of Southern Ireland."

"We are of the opinion that the powers given under the present act are insufficient to enable the present government of Southern Ireland to be carried on with any prospect of success, and having regard for the speech of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland on June 7, we urge upon the government that the earliest possible steps be taken to rescind the act."

"We desire further to make it clear that we are ready to act in the second chamber with a lower house sitting constitutionally as representing a majority of the electors, but we are not prepared to exercise our functions in connection with anybody nominated by the Lord Lieutenant to replace the elected lower house."

Salisbury Blames Government
The house of lords resumed yesterday the debate on the Irish situation. Lord Salisbury blamed the government for its failure to postpone the elections in the south. He said the elections had simply provided an opportunity for the Irish people to declare in favor of a republic, for moderate opinion was completely controlled by extreme opinion.

The government could only continue to experiment, but ought to announce any amendments to the home rule act it was prepared to propose.

The Earl of Desart doubted whether anything could be achieved by private negotiations. Lord Dunsen emphasized the chaos and confusion prevailing in Ireland and said that deliverance could come only by legislation amending the act in a direction which would be supported by moderate opinion.

The government, he declared, had made a mistake in not appealing straight to the Irish people. He did not believe they were republicans at heart. While nobody could say that a liberal measure would be accepted now, he was positive it would have been accepted six months ago. He urged the government to put it to the test.

Viscount Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor, alluding to the viceroy's recent speech, which he construed as implying that the home rule act needed prompt and drastic amendment, said it was not the object of the viceroy to make any important pronouncement on the subject of policy.

GARDEN INSECTS
Garden News Story From the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

The dry, warm weather we are experiencing is ideal for the propagation of garden insect pests of practically every nature. The plants are making comparatively little growth, insects are hatching and multiplying in vast numbers. Insect injury is always detrimental. It is even worse during a period like we are experiencing at the present time.

The rose chafer is very serious this year in certain localities. Where one has only a few grape vines to protect, or a few rose bushes, it probably is best to use the pickling method of destroying them. A pill with a little kerosene in the bottom and a shingle to lay them off into the pill works splendidly for protecting a limited number of plants. Spraying the plants with self-bottled lime sulphur is probably one of the best ways of combating this trouble on large areas.

The asparagus beetle is very common on most asparagus beds this season. After the cutting is finished, this insect can be very easily controlled by using the arsenical spray upon the shoots.

The common potato bug can be very easily controlled by either a green or arsenical lead spray. Arsenical lead is a little bit safer and there is comparatively little danger in using it. Approximately 1 pound of arsenical lead in ten gallons of water is the right strength. A somewhat weaker solution than this can be made if the bugs are attacked when they are very small.

SPRINKLE-BLOW'S MAIL

"LETTERS LAY IN A HEAP ALL OVER THE DOORSTEP"

After Mr. and Mrs. Muskrat had taken their family home and settled down again, and Jack Frost had departed to hunt up all the little crevices and freeze 'em, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow said to the twins, "Well, that's that! Not a very fine beginning to spring weather, but after all, spring has to begin some way and it may as well be a flood as any other. Old Man Flood usually has to have his thing once a year anyway. That's over, and now we'd better get down to business. Suppose you come up to my house on the star with me, and we'll look over my mail. Then we can tell exactly what everybody wants."

Nancy and Nick said they would be very glad to go, so the fairy weather-man got inside his magic umbrella (same as Mother Goose did her broom) and started off home, followed by the twins in their Magic Green Shoes that had taken them on so many wonderful travels.

Soon they arrived at the star where

SEEKS $250,000 TO PRESS PROSECUTION OF TRUSTS

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Department of Justice plans to ask congress for $250,000 to press prosecution of 1500 individuals and corporations alleged to be involved in nation-wide combinations revealed during the building trust inquiry conducted by the Lockwood legislative committee. This was learned yesterday after a conference between First Assistant United States Attorney General

Lockwood and Samuel Untermyer, committee counsel, arranged after Mr. Untermyer recently censured the department under the last administration for failing to follow up lines opened by him.

The list of prospective defendants includes one of the largest manufacturers, jobbers and dealers in paints, cement, iron erecting materials, stone, marble and other building supplies.

It was understood that Attorney General Daugherty would place United States Attorney Hayward of New York in direct charge of the prosecution in cooperation with Mr. Untermyer. It was also authoritatively learned that Mr. Untermyer was thoroughly satisfied after the conference, that Mr. Daugherty's department was in earnest, and if supplied with funds by congress would push the prosecutions to a finish. Plans called for assembling of a big force of prosecutors and investigators.

All evidence against the combines in alleged violation of the anti-trust laws which was gathered by the Lockwood committee has been turned over to the federal authorities.

A committee from the New York Fire Insurance Exchange, yesterday informed Mr. Untermyer that it had adopted resolutions carrying out the Lockwood committee's demand that discrimination against mutual companies and brokers be eliminated.

The meeting of the North Chelmsford water district is scheduled to be held next Monday evening in the town hall in the North village, but owing to the fact that on the same night the Chelmsford alumni will hold a meeting in the same hall, it is believed adjournment will be taken until the following night as soon as a moderator has been chosen. The 15th annual report of the district will be submitted and the special committee appointed to consider the advisability of establishing a system of sewerage in the district, will report in part as follows: To engage practical engineers specializing in sanitary sewerage systems and that they make a new survey and complete plan covering the whole system or system of main drains and common sewers for No. Chelmsford fire district as provided in Chapter 72 of the acts of the year 1920, subject to the approval of the department of the state public health.

Every month nearly 1,500,000,000 telephone calls are made in the United States.

Swept By German Artillery, Reims Was Worst War Sufferer, Says Sun Writer

BY COL. KNOX
PARIS, May 26.—Of all the cities of France Reims was the worst war sufferer. Twice falling into the hands of the enemy, in 1914 and in 1918, it was, throughout the war, always within range of the German artillery, whose guns registered on the left cathedral towers, and then almost daily swept the surrounding area with their fire. Despite a full year's work of rehabilitation, but slight impression has been made upon this heap of ruins which is about all that is left of the heart of one of the fairest cities in France.

As if to mock the hands that sought to profane and destroy, the great cathedral still stands, a thing of tragic beauty, no longer merely one of the most beautiful buildings in the world, but one of the world's most sacred. Roofless, with its incomparable windows destroyed, seared by fire, and scarred by shell, nevertheless, this masterpiece of Gothic architecture still delights the eye with its lace-like detail and inevitably turns one's thoughts to the God, in whose honor it was built, and who must have looked down upon its wanton desecration, with pitying sorrow, that men who presume to call upon His name with reverence, could put his temple to such base use. Hate of the vile thing in human nature which could make such a crime possible becomes holy in the shadow of the cathedral.

We recently passed within to find a religious service in progress. More than four years of German hate had not sufficed to prevent the cathedral continuing to be the sacred place of worship for the survivors of Reims. Within these walls one forgot distinctions of creed and sect, the mere mother of all worship of the one God of Christianity became a matter of indifference, and each in his, or her, way said a prayer of thankfulness that right and justice had prevailed over brute lust for power.

Reims to Chateau Thierry

From Reims to Chateau Thierry we followed the high water mark of the last German drive for Paris and victory, through Ville-en-Tardenois, Châtillon to the Marne, at Dormans, where Americans disputed the crossing with the Germans until the waters of the river ran red with human blood. The fierceness of the attack and defense along the highway we traversed was attested by the scars on the roadside trees. Here were but a few marks of shell fire—the advance of the Germans and the retreat of the French was so swift that German guns were left far in the rear, and the French guns were being withdrawn to prevent capture without exception, the trees were marked with rifle and machine gun bullets, not exceptional trees, but every tree, gave mute evidence of the concentration of musketry which drove the French. It was significant that most of the scars came from the German advance. There were few scars to show that the French replied. There is a bridge across the Marne at Chateau Thierry that invokes precisely the same sentiments in the heart of an American as those which surge up as one looks, for the first time, upon that little bridge at Concorde, which marked the beginnings of the fight for liberty from oppression in a new world. Here the liberties of both new, and old, worlds were preserved, and the glory of America is that it was her sons who stood and challenged successfully the powers of reaction and oppression, at two of the greatest moments in human history.

Americans Unsupported

The Americans at Chateau Thierry were without artillery support. For them it was a machine gun fight with little opportunity to organize their position, but they found engagements for their guns in the buildings that commanded the crossing, and although the Germans brought up their guns and hammered the buildings into ruins, they never succeeded in achieving this bridgehead. Always the American guns continued their trip-hammer salvoes, and every German that reached the bridge fell before he reached the further side. There is, as yet, naught to mark the spot save the broken walls behind which the Americans fought. Some day, one hopes, some great artist will provide a suitable memorial for this spot which will always be a place of inspiring pride and reverent affection for Americans, as long as the republic endures.

Belleau Wood

Through Bouresches and Veaux, villages men of the 26th will not forget, to Belleau Wood, that cauldron of whirling shells and suffocating gas, where the gallant Second Division and the equally gallant Yankee Division fought their way in that great drive which gave the Germans ammunition of the disaster which had begun to cast its shadow before. Here we found a series of boulders, bearing the name of the Second Division, each marking the jump-off of the consecutive advances which eliminated the German threat. Similar monuments should mark the operations of the Yankee Division, for my New England pride refuses to yield all the glory of that wonderful fight in Belleau Wood to the Second alone. The division that took up the task where the Second, exhausted, laid it down, is entitled to its due share of the credit for as brilliant a feat of arms as any the war saw.

The healing touch of nature has done much to rob the Wood of its horrors. The ground is overgrown with brush, and many of the broken trees are again robed in green, but above the foliage the naked arms of the dead trees stretch up to tell of the killing blast which once swept every inch of the wooded hillside. The trenches are tumbled in, and nearly obliterated, but the ground has the familiar tortured look of land where men dug themselves in, and other men tried to blast them out. The wheat field, where many a machine gun fell before the machine gun fire of the boches, is again a wheat field, with waving grain, like that which gave so poor a shelter three years ago.

An American Cemetery

At the lower edge of the Wood where the Americans strayed at the leash awaiting the order to go on, the men who died so gallantly find their resting place. We have, seen many French, British and Italian cemeteries. This was our first American shrine, and we found it incomparably the best kept, the most attractive of them all, in the graveyards of our allies the ground is bare, but over the places where Americans lie, the sweet, green grass is growing, shrubbery has been planted, and in the center is the star from which floats the flag for which these men died. Nowhere, outside of America, does it look more beautiful, nor accent more forcefully the great principles and the great nation of which it is the symbol.

Just at the side of the entrance is a little hostess house, presided over by two splendid American women, secretaries of the Young Women's Christian association, who are there to comfort and to aid the sorrowing relatives of men whose last resting place they have sought. It constitutes a touch which is unique. We found no other nation whose men died in France following this course, so palpably dictated by affectionate sympathy for those whose sacrifice was greatest.

Personally I regret that so many of the fallen Americans are to be taken from the ground their valor won, from the scene of the great sacrifice. Here they lived greatly and died nobly, and here it would seem, they sleep their long sleep most appropriately. But this is pure sentiment. I would not do as some are doing, try to prevent their removal by unwarranted stories of ghastly indifference displayed by those whose duty is to see to the exhumation and shipment home of the bodies of the dead. I personally saw some of this work being done, and talked with the responsible officers. The work is done carefully and reverently. But, by chance, I saw a German brought in from an isolated, just discovered, grave. If the folks at home only knew, they would leave the poor broken bodies here, where they fell, in the most righteous cause for which men ever fought and died.

CITY ELECTION COSTLY

Expense of Over $5000 To Ascertain Voters' Will on Initiative Order

The cost to the city of the special election, to be held early in August, to pass upon the chamber of commerce initiative order forbidding the construction or reconstruction of streets except by contractors, will be in excess of $5000, according to figures made public at the office of the election commissioners today.

According to these figures 224 precinct officers are due to receive $10 for a day's work for a total of $2240; 28 clerks $11 a day, or a total of $308; six clerks in city hall for tabulating on election night at $7 each, or a total of $42.

In addition 28 school janitors are in for a comfortable windfall in the shape of $5 each for opening the polling places in the morning and locking the doors at night. The total amount is $140.

Twenty-eight ballot boxes must be taken to the voting booths and carried back to city hall. For this service truckmen will receive $250 for each box that they handle or a total of $700.

The printing of the ballots, posters and instruction card will cost at least $100, it is estimated. The work of erecting the polling places will be done by the building department and the cost thereof charged up to the election commissioners' appropriation. It is stated that this expense will probably amount to about $2000.

The total of all the various items is $5200. In addition there are numerous miscellaneous supplies such as pens, pencils and candies to be paid for.

It will be necessary to use the 1920 list of voters at the coming election, according to a statement made this morning by Chairman Hugh C. Mosher of the election commission. The 1921 list for only four precincts of the city have been completed thus far and it is not expected that lists for all of the precincts will be ready before September. Assurance is given that no person will lose his or her vote because of a change of residence since the lists for 1920 were made up. It is possible that the election commissioners may open the books for a short period of registration previous to the special election. The period will necessarily be short as the election must take place in from 40 to 50 days.

There is a conflict of opinion in city hall over the question of whether the municipal council or the election commission has the authority to prescribe the hours during which the polls shall be kept open on the day of the coming election. The city charter provides simply that the council shall "call a special election," and there is no provision for fixing the hours during which the polls shall be open.

More U-Boats Targets of Naval Gunners

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., June 22.—Two more former German submarines will form targets for naval marksmanship today when a division of Atlantic fleet destroyers train their guns on the under-sea craft while at anchor near the spot where the U-117 was sent to the bottom yesterday in a bombing attack by naval seaplanes. While the question at issue yesterday was whether the vessel could be sunk at all by an air attack, that involved in today's program was simply how quickly the destroyers' guns could turn the trick.

"I Hate It! I Hate It!" Cries Richest Girl in the World. What? Money!

DELOREA ANGELL

BY R. J. GIBBONS

CHICAGO, June 22.—"Money! How I hate it!"

There's no fun being rich. All my wealth has brought but sorrow and discomfort. I'd like to lose every penny—just dump the whole mess some place!

The speaker was the richest girl in the world, Miss Dellorea Angell, who's 18 and worth $10,000,000. She avers she is the "poor little rich girl" of the fairy tale.

An accounting just filed in the courts shows that $176,000 was spent on her in the last two years—$100 a day.

At 16 she inherited all the millions amassed during a spectacular life-time by her famous uncle, "Bet-a-Million" John W. Gates, the traction magnate.

I interviewed Dellorea at her million-dollar palace in Lake Forest, where her every movement is closely guarded. She wore a very simple dress of white. She appeared most disconsolate in a plaintive voice this child of the glitzy age said that "gold is not everything."

"Do you know," she continued, "I'm just sick and tired of being pampered and fawned over. I want to get out and do something worth while."

"Like what?" I inquired.

"Well, like helping other people. Giving their children a chance, for example. But here," she surveyed the room with a sweep of her hand—"it's just sameness, dress for luncheon, school, sitting in study rooms, talking meaningless talk. Oh, it's so boring!"

"But shouldn't you be content, surrounded with everything most people struggle all their lives to get—money?" I suggested.

"Some people are quite silly and I'm not," exclaimed Dellorea. "So, please remember that."

"Money is a bother. I hope to use mine for good works—education and charity. But just yet, of course, I've made no definite plans."

"Naturally I'm grateful for what has been given to me. But look at all the good times I miss because I'm rich."

"Before I became a wealthy I could go outside and walk through the town without fear. Now it's different. Somebody might try kidnapping me."

"And then all this fuss they make over me, too—it's disgusting. I hate it. I'm tired of being in the public eye. You can't imagine how terrible it is!"

"Miss Angell, what would you care to do and be above everything else?" I asked her.

She paused for just a moment and then replied:

"Most of all!"

"Yes."

"Well, I'll tell you—but you mustn't laugh! I want a little house for my very own, with no maids or servants—and a nice little kitchen with a stove and everything."

"You see I'm fond of cooking, and oh, I can bake the dandiest pies and cakes, and make the loveliest salads. They taste fine and says so."

"Is that all you want? Just the house? Isn't there going to be a good-looking husband around some place to make the scene complete?" I ventured.

"For a moment she was confused.

"Perhaps—perhaps, some time. I'm just now I can't think of husbands. I'm too busy learning how to live and how to manage all this money."

She denied specifically that she's engaged—a report that has been current a dozen times. She denied, too, that she specially favors any one young man.

"I want to be a simple, natural girl. Folks probably imagine I sleep in a gold bed and swim in lakes of pearls. But they're wrong. I spend very little money on myself. I have a little spending account for my money—not very much—about $100 a month. Please let people know I'm not a waster. I'm not going to be an idle spender—not on your life!"

"We're here to help others, and when we die—of course, I'm not planning on anything like that now—you don't take a penny with you; not a cent!"

Dellorea is unassuming; her eyes are a wondrous brown; her hair is brown, too; every movement is graceful; her entire bearing bespeaks refinement and culture.

LOWELL MAN RECEIVED GREAT RESULTS IN STOMACH TROUBLE FROM THE HERBAL TONIC CINOT

Mr. Joe Horwitz of 174 Howard Street, Lowell, is Praising CINOT As It Is the Only Remedy That Helped Him At All

Mr. Horwitz says "I was ashamed to go into a restaurant after eating as I would hech up gas so much and I haven't for a long time eaten a meal without great distress and gas."

"I heard of CINOT because it helped so many of my friends and I decided it was the medicine for me and I used it and today I am a well man."

"No gas and no distress no matter how much I eat and my friends are surprised at the wonderful results CINOT has obtained for me."

CINOT is being demonstrated in Lowell by an expert at 1000 Drug Store, Merrimack square, and is for sale by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

SCHWAB SAYS GREATEST ERA DAWNING

HOBOKEN, N. J., June 22.—Charles M. Schwab told members of the graduating class at Stevens Institute of Technology yesterday that he would be willing to give whatever fame or wealth had come to him if he could be one of them, because the greatest era of development in the history of the world was dawning.

"To men like you," he said, "will come the opportunity of making your services invaluable in the rebuilding of civilization. There will be no monument of stone or marble to mark my passing, but I hope that rows of flaming furnaces and smoke stacks will mark any contribution of mine to the development of the great country."

UNIFORM WAGE CUT REJECTED

BROCKTON, June 22.—Individual arbitration of wage agreements by department with each of the hundreds of more shoe manufacturers in this district has been requested by representatives of the several unions.

The Brockton Shoe Manufacturers' association announced yesterday that a three-hour conference with the union representatives had demonstrated that it would be impossible to reach an agreement for an adjustment embodying a wage reduction for all workers. The manufacturers' plan for a blanket arbitration proceeding before the state board of the proposal for a uniform wage cut of 20 per cent, was rejected, the announcement said, the unions holding that their contracts were with individual manufacturers and not with the association.

The union request was taken under advisement by the association.

GEORGE HUNT DEAD

Victim of Auto Accident Dies at Hospital

After lying for many hours unconscious with a compound fracture of the skull at the Lowell Corporation hospital, George T. Hunt, 20, employed as a chauffeur by the Nelson-Morris Beef company, died about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He is survived by his parents, William J. and Annie (Dorrie) Hunt; three brothers, Charles F., William J., Jr., and Gilbert L. Hunt; and two sisters, Mary E. and Celena Hunt. The members of his family are all residents of this city. The body was removed from the hospital to the undertaking rooms of James W. McKenna on Bridge street.

It is stated that Hunt, prior to the accident which resulted fatally for him, had borrowed the Ford machine of his friend, Raymond Morley, and was bound for Osgood street to visit acquaintances. It was reported that the car was seen racing up and down Westford street Monday afternoon, but this is declared to be false, and it is said to have been a car of similar appearance that was seen. Prior to his employment by the Nelson-Morris company, he worked as a chauffeur for the D. L. Page Co.

STATE HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

The contract for the construction of 3100 feet of state highway as an extension to the East Branch highway, has been awarded by the Massachusetts department of public works to the Harwood Construction Co. of Boston, the cost of the work to be $18,955. It is said that the tardiness of the board of selectmen of the town in filling the proper petitions has resulted in the town losing the privilege of doing the work with local labor.

DESCRIBES MORMON METHODS

The methods used by missionaries of the Mormon church in their efforts to gather in converts were described last night by Dr. J. M. Tibbitts, manager of the Boston office of the National Reform association, at a meeting in the Young Men's Christian association hall. Dr. Tibbitts asserted that a campaign for gathering converts is now being carried on all over the country.

General Taylor of Globe Dead

Went to War at 16

He had been associated with printer's ink from boyhood, when, at the age of 15 he was for part of each day alternately on duty in the composing room and the mailing room, and, on the way home, took papers to the railroad stations in a wheelbarrow. At 16 he went to war, a private in the 38th Massachusetts regiment and one of the youngest soldiers who served in the Civil war.

Returning wounded, he passed from apprenticeship to printer, and thence to reporter. After serving as governor's secretary and legislator, he accepted an offer, previously rejected, to manage the financially unsuccessful Boston Globe. This was in 1873. It was a hard fight, with the paper from day to day only a jump ahead of the sheriff's General Taylor in later years was wont to describe the situation. The paper lost $50,000 a year for five years but eventually became a success through the revolutionary methods of its manager.

Axioms of His Paper

To his reporter staff, General Taylor always made his personality a live one. At times this was expressed in terms that became axioms of his paper. "Never say that a man refused to be interviewed as if he were an evasive criminal in the dock; he had a right to refuse," was one. "Don't ever drag in the family of a man who has gone wrong; they are suffering enough through no fault of their own," was another. "When you make a caricature of a public man, make one that even his wife can laugh at," was another.

Before taking over the management of the Globe, General Taylor had founded a magazine called the American Homes and became a pioneer in the 10 cent magazine field. The venture gave every assurance of success, but the plant was destroyed by the great Boston fire of 1872, and General Taylor was left virtually without funds.

Reviewing his battle to put the Globe on its feet financially and in public estimation, he said: "My aim has been to make the Globe a cheerful, attractive and useful newspaper that would enter the home as a kindly, helpful friend of the family."

It was a week ago Monday evening while taking his customary walk along Commonwealth avenue with one of his sons, that General Taylor suffered a slight shock, which came as the first warning of his approaching end.

Although confined to bed, he insisted the next day and even through last Friday, upon directing details of articles which he wished to have appear in the Globe.

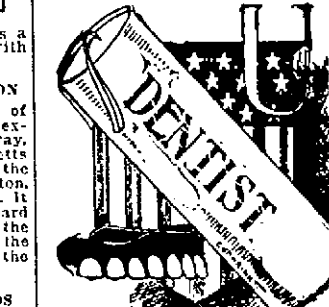

But, except for successive rallies, he gradually weakened. His children and grandchildren came to his home and there, at 10 o'clock this morning, he died peacefully.

General Taylor is survived by three sons, Charles H. Taylor, Jr., manager of the Boston Globe; William O. Taylor, business manager of the Globe; and John L. Taylor, former president of the Boston American League baseball club, and now interested in real estate. Two daughters also survive, Mrs. Horace D. Pillsbury of San Francisco and Mrs. Matthew C. Armstrong of Hampton, Va.

HOW TO PACK A PICNIC BASKET

By SISTER MARY

Use plenty of oiled paper to wrap sandwiches and cakes when packing your picnic luncheon and pack snugly so things won't shake.

Wrap every ten or dozen sandwiches in oiled paper and then in an old napkin. Then wrap in ordinary wrapping paper. Sandwiches packed in this fashion will be just as fresh when opened after several hours as if put up in a regular sandwich box.

Hard boiled eggs should be shelled and wrapped in oiled paper. Each piece of cake could be wrapped separately and then all the pieces wrapped again in oiled paper before putting in a box or wrapping in a napkin. When it comes to packing the basket, fill up any empty corners or cracks with crumpled paper. And as to sandwiches themselves, each half of the bread should be lightly buttered. This prevents the bread from absorbing the filling.

Picnic sandwiches are not tea sandwiches and the bread should not be too thin or the sandwiches made in two-inch squares.

Use any kind of cold meat. Trim off very carefully any gristle or fat and put through the food chopper. Moisten with tomato ketchup. Taste and add more salt if necessary. Cold beef is especially good. Put between slices of white bread and butter.

Pork Chicken Sandwiches

One cup cold roast pork, 1/4 cup diced celery, 1 teaspoonful minced parsley, mayonnaise dressing.

The meat may be cut in slices or put through the food chopper. If chopped, add celery and parsley and mix smooth with mayonnaise. Put between slices of white bread and butter.

Pork Sandwiches

Put cold roast pork or chops through the food chopper. Mix with chopped mixed pickle or chopped sweet pickles and put between slices of white bread and butter. If mixed pickle is used, be careful that the mixture is not too moist.

Salad Sandwiches

One-half cup chopped raisins, 1/4 cup chopped nuts, 1 package cream cheese, 1/4 teaspoon salt, few gratings nutmeg, 1 tablespoon cream.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly and put between slices of brown bread and butter.

Combination Sandwiches

One-fourth cup butter, 1/4 cup cottage cheese, 2 pimientos, 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Beat butter to a cream and slowly add cheese and pimientos chopped. Spread between slices of white and brown bread.

Brain Bread Sandwiches

York state full cream cheese, 2 pimientos, salt, cream to make moist.

Put 1/4 pound cheese through a ricer or work smoothly with a fork in a bowl. Add chopped pimientos and cream gradually. Put between slices of brain bread and butter.

Onion Sandwiches

Peel and slice onion. Let stand in cold salted water for half an hour. Drain and chop. Season with salt and pepper and a very little vinegar. Put between slices of whole wheat bread and butter.

Hard Boiled Egg Sandwiches

Separate yolks and whites of hard boiled eggs and chop each separately. Add 1 chopped green pepper for every four eggs. Mix with mayonnaise to

WHEN?

The Lover Query

by Berton Braley

There's many a question of the day
That gives us something to fret about,
Like "When is Germany going to pay?"
And, "How are the Bolsheviks coming out?"
"Who will the pennant winners be?"
"Will Dempsey cling to the fighting crown?"
But the only question that bothers me
Is, "When are you coming back to town?"

The Polish question perplexes some,
The Einstein theory's harder still,
The labor question still makes us plumb,
The Japanese problem has a thrill!

But the only question that I debate,
The only thought that is in my ken,
Is, "Dear, I'm lonely, why must I wait?"
"When are you coming back again?"

Still, still the city is all aflutter
With floods of people; yet,
To my sight,
With the presence of one small girl,
The place is empty, deserted, quite!

There's nothing I seem to want to do,
I gaze at life with a sullen
frown;
And all I think of the whole day through Is "When are you coming

Legion Carnival Program a Screamer—Golden Opportunity for Ex-Service Men

Two hundred and forty ex-service men can have jobs during the Fourth of July season merely by applying for them! And it is promised by Francis J. Roane, who offers these positions, that an unparalleled opportunity to make money will be afforded. The occasion will be the American Legion's carnival on the South common, the biggest enterprise ever attempted in this section of the United States, according to the figures. "I estimate that 250,000 people will visit this affair, from all parts of New England and even further away," declared Mr. Roane today. "Already I have given jobs to 60 war veterans, and there are propositions with unequalled chances for money-making open and waiting for 240 more. They can't help collect big money. Two years ago, I myself sold 11,000 bottles of beer on the South common in one day, and that was nothing to what will be done on this occasion. During yesterday and today, I received 150 applications for lots from towns in New Hampshire."

"I predict," continued Manager Roane, "that there won't be enough help in Lowell to handle the crowds. I have received communications from cities in many states, asking where hotel rooms can be secured. Hundreds of auto parties will be here. Arrangements have been made, says Roane, for parking spaces near the common where cars will be absolutely safe. Merchandise to the value of $25,000 has been bought for sale during the carnival. An advance man is on his way through Vermont, in which state he will proceed as far as White River Junction, and back through Haverhill and other Massachusetts cities. A vast number of posters will be put in place. Auto posters, for the backs of cars, have also arrived at the carnival headquarters, and those interested in assisting the service men's enterprise may obtain these at the headquarters.

The festivities will start with a bang on the evening of the Friday preceding Independence Day, when a parade will be held, and Mayor Perry D. Thompson will touch a key lighting the thousands of electric lamps which will illuminate the grounds. A balloon with fireworks will then ascend. Four days, afternoon and evening, there will be incredible stunts by Twombly's flying circus, including a leap from one plane to another, a loop the loop while standing on the wing of a plane, and a parachute drop from the wing of one of the airplanes.

BITTEN BY DOG

Carl Pratt, aged 61, living at 275 Appleton street, was bitten on the left cheek and left ear this morning by an airedale dog, said to be owned by a John Fain of Rock street. It was reported to the board of health this morning. Dr. Walter A. Sherman, animal inspector, was notified.

barrier signs will all have been removed, the last workman will have gathered up his tools and departed, and the city will be able to show to citizens a creditable piece of highway which it is expected will keep in good condition for at least five years. It has taken the street department about six weeks to complete the job.

State Work Unfinished

There is one fly, however, in the ointment of satisfaction of autoists traveling between Lowell and Lawrence over the newly constructed thoroughfare. The street has only been put in good shape as far as the city's boundary line. Beyond this is a stretch of road connecting with the state boulevard that is still in unsatisfactory condition. The highway de-

The city's work on the street comprised $100 square yards of bituminous macadam. Today some of the men who had been employed on the first street job were transferred to work on Third street. They are getting ready to lay about 5000 square yards of asphalt macadam. It is expected that about three weeks will be required to finish the job.

Making a Record

The work on First street is only one of the jobs which City Engineer Stephen Kearney has set out to push to completion since he took charge of the street and water and fire department commissioners' offices. He is hitting the high spots in his progress toward making a record as a working city official which is causing old-timers around the hall to sit up and take notice.

After years of talking about having repair gangs put at work patching the street, the city engineer now has four such gangs with upwards of 50 men at work. They are engaged in

WHY DOES SHE LOOK SO OLD?

This question has been asked about many a woman under thirty, who has married and taken upon herself the cares of a house and young children. When a woman is suffering from female weakness, bearing down, pale head and back ache and nervous irritation, it is well nigh impossible to attend to her duties and retain the charm and freshness of youth. Must she then struggle on toward the inevitable nervous breakdown or premature old age? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from such a fate. Thousands of grateful letters from such women testify to the merits of this wonderful root and herb medicine for female ills.

moving about over the city and making repairs wherever they are most needed. Those gangs are taking out flagstone crossings, filling up holes, laying short stretches of macadam and leveling-up block paving. Today one gang is at work on the job of taking out all of the flagstone crossings in Fairmount and Wyman streets.

On Thorndike Street

Work is going forward with a hustle on Thorndike street, where 10,000 square yards of ground gravel is being laid. City Engineer Kearney states that this piece of pavement will be in condition for wheels to begin turning over it again August 1. These are a part of the jobs that started the city engineer peeling off his coat and preparing for action as soon as he reached his office today. In addition to his street department activities the engineer is looking after the laying of a 12-inch water main in

Wentworth avenue from Fairmount street to Holyrood avenue. This new pipe will add largely to the supply of water and the pressure in the section served by it.

The engineer has had an all compressor set up on the site of the bridge on Market street over the canal. This will furnish the pressure to blow cement in connection with the rebuilding of the bridge.

Next Saturday afternoon and Sunday, when the water is drawn from the canal, the old abutments of the bridge will be thoroughly cleaned and given a coat of cement. As soon as this cement has set, the work of building the reinforced concrete bridge will start. It is announced that it is expected that the work will be completed in about six weeks.

BEE STINGS VERSUS STINGS OF RHEUMATISM

GEORGE RENNER BEING STUNG

That rheumatism can be cured by the sting of the honey-bee, is the firm belief of George Renner, of Cincinnati, who is taking this novel treatment to eradicate the disease from his system. Each Wednesday and Sunday Renner visits the apiary of Fred Muth and submits to being stung by the honey-bees.

At first, when Renner could just hobble along with the aid of crutches, he bared his arm to as high as ten stings. Now Renner can walk without the aid of a cane and gets stung only twice a week.

"At first the stings of the bees were very painful to me," says Renner, "and the swelling resulting from the stings were great, but as my system gradually became inoculated the pain and swellings grew less and the pain less in proportion. I can now take the stings with very little pain at all."

Dr. Muth explains the cure this way: "It is a well known fact that the sting of the honey-bee is made painful by the formic acid which enters the wound when the bee stings."

"Some physicians contend that formic acid counteracts rheumatism."

"Allowing one's self to be stung by the honey-bees is merely introducing formic acid into the system."

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

No Importance Attached to Slight Settlement in Pier—Expense Negligible

There has been a very slight settlement, less than 1/4 of an inch, in one of the piers on the river side of the new Memorial Auditorium in East Merrimack street. The settlement has occurred in an area where the soil is particularly soft.

Major Gow of the Charles R. Gow Construction Co. has been called in by the auditorium building commission to carry the piers in this area down to hard pan and to put in three or four new underpinning piers.

This slight settlement happens to almost any building and is not considered of any importance by the auditorium building commission or by the architect. According to a representative of the commission, the incident did not warrant elaborate journalistic display because it was neither important nor involving more than slight expense.

THE STRAND

Today's offering will be H. B. Warner's pictureization of Nat Goodwin's great stage success, "When We Were Twenty-one," and the other feature, which by the way is to be shown for the last time this afternoon and tonight. If you haven't seen these super-spectacles, then you want to today.

For the last three days of the week, starting with matinee on Thursday, the program will consist of Viola Dana's latest picture romance, "Home Stuff," and Pearl White in "Know Your Men." Both are exceptional photoplays. Miss Dana has the stellar role of Madge Fey, leading lady of a chain barnstorming company in "Home Stuff." She finds a haven in a quiet, simple farmstead, after being ousted from the company, and her place taken by an inexperienced girl whose admirer is willing to back the impoverished show. Then the company of actors come to the farm, bringing with them the girl, a runaway from the very home Madge has entered. The working out of the plot is really splendid. Admirers of Pearl White will find in "Know Your Men" a picture that affords her opportunity for new phase of her exceptional ability, particularly her strong emotional acting. And don't forget that the Strand is the "coolest spot in town," and that there are 1000 seats being sold at 10 cents each.

tle crowding. And on arrival a wide variety of amusement is available, including free vaudeville. Mather's famous orchestra plays afternoon and evening for dancing in the great hall.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances of "White and Unmarried," starring Thomas Melghan will be given at the Merrimack Square Theatre this evening. Tomorrow afternoon there will be an entire change of program.

The features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "The Wild Goose," a stirring dramatic production dealing with the divorce evil, and "One Minute," a lighter story, with popular Douglas MacLean in the leading role.

"The Wild Goose" is a production of great power and dramatic strength. Gouverneur Morris, the famous short story writer and novelist, wrote the story and it was adapted for the screen by Denham Darrell.

The photoplay gets its name from the legend that a wild goose is always faithful to its mate, even after death parts them. Frank Manners is a sincere young artist. His wife, Diana Manners, becomes fascinated by Ogden Fenn, who influences her to go away with him and take her child with her despite the anguish of her husband and the protests of their best friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings.

Manners is so heart-broken because of his wife's desertion that he wants to kill Fenn. He is prevented from doing so by Mrs. Hastings, who gives him a sleeping draught. She confesses to her husband that she has always loved Manners, but that she has never allowed that love to manifest itself. Her husband, heartbroken by his wife's confession and sorry for Manners, goes in his automobile where Mrs. Manners, Ogden and the child are lying. He threatens to shoot Ogden unless he gives up Mrs. Manners.

From this point on the plot becomes absorbingly interesting and the development is one that will give the spectator a happy surprise. In "One Every Minute," Douglas MacLean plays the role of a young man who invented a patent medicine, guaranteed to cure man or beast. There's a lot of fun, mystery and adventure in the production and MacLean has sold him seen in a better role. A comedy and the International News will round out the bill.

BRUNSWICK, Me., June 22.—Booker Douglass, a barber, was found bound, gagged and unconscious, beside the state highway near his home, at Bowdoinham, late last night. When he was revived several hours later, he said he had been struck on the head by occupants of an automobile bearing a Massachusetts license plate, robbed of $9000 in Liberty bonds, $700 in money and valuable papers. Police of surrounding towns were searching for the car, believed to have contained three persons, one of whom inquired the way to Lisbon Falls, a few miles from here. Douglass is about 60 years of age. He was not seriously injured.

DIST. ATTY. TUFTS SAYS HIS DAY IS COMING

BOSTON, June 22.—Dist. Atty. Nathan A. Tufts, last night, issued the following statement in regard to Atty. Gen. Allen's bill of specifications made public yesterday:

"Months ago the attorney general made charges against me to the legislature. Twenty-four days ago he made charges against me in court. Ever since then I have been trying to find out what he charges me with, but even now that he has filed some specifications he still requests that he may reserve the right to file specifications later in spite of the court's order that he should file them.

Asks If Public Thinks It Fair

"I wonder if the public thinks it is fair play for a man to use the prestige and authority of a great office to charge me in the legislature, in court, and in the newspapers with things for which, if I am guilty, I ought forever to be excluded from the society of decent men, when he doesn't know yet what he means by the charges.

"I wish my counsel would let me talk about the specifications that have been filed, but my day is coming. Just let me have time enough to look up some of the cases to which he refers and to get the names of necessary witnesses together, and I am ready to meet my accusers where they are, in the sparring parlance of the day, will have 'to put up or shut up'.

"Some of the matters specified are so trivial that they would not be heard at all unless shouted through a megaphone. But exaggeration and noise does not make me guilty.

"Some of the matters specified are absurd."

"I told the public long ago that they would find I had not been guilty of an unworthy or improper thought, word or deed. It will not now be long before the whole public will see not only my innocence, but also the motive behind this brutal assault upon my character.

The Higelow Case

"While I cannot discuss the facts to be heard in court, yet it does not seem improper for me to let the public have an instance to illustrate what I mean. In paragraph 6 of the latest emanation from Special Assistant Attorney General Hurlburt, he brings up the Higelow case. On the public records of the prior court will be found a case where Daniel H. Coakley brought suit against Higelow to collect on a note claimed to have been given for attorney's fees rendered by Mr. Coakley to Mr. Higelow. In that case, Mr. Coakley's attorney of record is the present Special Assistant District Attorney Henry P. Hurlburt. Let some of the records ask Mr. Hurlburt if he wanted me to bring forward a secret indictment against Mr. Higelow, voted by a grand jury long before I became district attorney, as a favor to help him collect Coakley's note against Higelow.

"Perhaps it is not wise for me even to say as much as this, but when a man is being bullied and battered and his reputation besmirched, and held up to public contempt and ridicule, can you blame him if the limits of human endurance have been reached? Efforts to reach Mr. Hurlburt last night to give his man opportunity to answer Mr. Tufts' statement were unavailing.

SPECIAL MEETING

Ladies' Auxiliary of Local Legion Post Will Meet Monday Night in Memorial Hall

On next Monday night a special meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the local American Legion post will be held in Memorial hall with Mrs. Mary Quinn Marr in the chair, and the activities of the body in connection with the monster carnival will be discussed. At a meeting held last Monday, Mrs. Marr also presided, and address was delivered by Commander Powers of the post here, in eulogy of the late national Commander Calbraith. It was voted that poppies should be worn in memory of the late national legion leader, by all the ladies, during a period of the ensuing 30 days. Mrs. Marr heads the committee in charge of the auxiliary's Fourth of July activities, and final plans for co-operating with the legionnaires at the carnival will be made next Monday at the special gathering.

SAYS PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS SAVE STATE $10,000,000

WORCESTER, June 22.—That the Catholic parochial schools of Massachusetts saved the taxpayers of the state about $10,000,000 during 1920 was a statement made yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. James J. Farrell, rector of Ascension church, in an address at the joint graduation exercises of the Ascension and St. John's parochial schools, in St. John's parish hall. He said:

"These schools are the result of our conscientious convictions that they are a necessity in our day to preserve the faith of our children. And, for the sake of conscientious Catholics, people are making tremendous sacrifices. Just think of it. Last year there were 122,772 children under Catholic training in the state of Massachusetts—4632 in Worcester alone.

"If we take the average cost to the state for 1920 of each pupil in the elementary public schools—$80 per pupil—you can readily figure it out that we saved the state last year $7,336,320. money the state would have been obliged to expend for the education of the 122,772 boys and girls who are educated in our parochial schools without costing the state of Massachusetts a cent.

"And if we consider the saving to the state on the investments made for educating these 122,772 pupils, we shall see that it amounts to more than $10,000,000.

"We make this sacrifice, I say, for the sake of conscience, and if it cost us more even, we would be willing to make the sacrifice to educate our children truly and to bring them up to love God, and consequently to be better men and women and better citizens."

The U. S. ROYAL CORD

A famous tire—a famous tread. Acknowledged among motorists and dealers alike as the world's foremost example of Cord tire building. Always delivering the same repeated economy, tire after tire, and season after season. The stripe around the side-walls is registered as a trade mark in the U. S. Patent Office.

With every tire priced at true worth, what need would there be for "discounts"

BUSINESS concerns may be divided roughly into two classes.

One goes on the idea that the public doesn't think much. The other believes that public good sense makes the right decision nine times out of ten.

Concern No. 1 likes to keep away from facts. Concern No. 2 is anxious to place all the facts possible before people.

It is interesting to watch these conflicting methods working the tire industry.

ness of the "discount" way of selling tires.

Going right ahead and making the par quality tire at a net price.

Opposing the confusion of "so much off list." Because list prices don't mean anything until the real worth of the tire itself is proven. Because "discounts" mean still less when list price has no relation to value.

Now it is evident the public hasn't been backward in finding out the truth.

ward in finding out the truth.

Rising above all the uncertainty of "discount" appeal comes the clear, sharp public opinion in favor of U. S. Royal Cords.

More dealers by 36% than a year ago. In May 1921 alone an increase in sales of U. S. Royal Cords of more than 25% over May 1920.

Car-owners know more than they let on.

They are letting the "discount" situation run its course.

And turning to U. S. Royal Cords as the par quality tire at a net price.

The most significant thing that is happening in tires today.

PEASANT'S BODICE IN FAVOR

COALGRAM No. 12

Monday's Boston News Bureau carried the following news special:

"Letter sent by Chairman Clark of Interstate Commerce Commission to a western coal association stated there would be no immediate reduction in coal freight rates, which caused sensation, being first official intimation that no action had been taken to reduce coal freight rates, as buyers and public had been led to believe."

This company has held to the belief right along that there would be no reduction in rates this year and has advised and still advises its customers to put in coal now. We have all the best grades and sizes. July first will see another advance in prices at the mines which we must take into consideration.

Lincoln Grammar School Baseball

Team One of City's Fastest Amateur Nines

LINCOLN SCHOOL 1921 BASEBALL SQUAD

For the first time in its history the Lincoln school this year turned out a uniformed baseball team which was supported solely by the school athletic association. The team was one of the best grammar school nines of the city, despite the fact it was beaten for the pennant by the fast Green school outfit. Out of 30 games played, the Lincoln won 17, a very creditable record for an amateur team.

Considering the fact, that the squad was made up almost entirely of inexperienced players at the beginning of the season, five of the regular members of the team playing organized baseball for the first time, the record is unusually noteworthy. Nine out of the 11 regulars of the team have left school this year.

The Lincoln school nine was the champion of Group A of the Grammar School league, defeating the Edsons at Spaulding park for the first time in years and thus eliminating that team from the pennant race.

The Lincoln defeated the Washingtons in six out of seven games played and in the regularly scheduled league game between these two teams the Lincoln were the victors, 10 to 8. They defeated the Moreys five times. The last game was played on the Morey grounds last Monday night, and the score was 13 to 3 in the Lincoln's favor.

The Butlers fell victims to the Chelmsford street organization, 16 to 1. In the grammar school championship series the Lincoln won 2 and lost 2. They defeated the champion Greens, 9 to 6, in one game and lost to them, 11 to 6, in another. They defeated the Bartletts 24 to 3 in the Lincoln's favor, 3 to 7, in a close struggle. They defeated the Middlesex County Training school team, 8 to 4.

The star infielder of the team was Walter Regnier, who played shortstop and could not continue the contest. Captain Milburn, leader of the American team, who was playing under a severe handicap on Saturday, due to an injury to his back in the preliminary games, profited by the rest which followed the opening game and was reported last night to be in splendid condition.

There was little optimism to be seen in today's forecasts of the match, nearly all writers admitting that an American victory was very probable. Some sanguine critics still clung to the hope that the British team would provide a surprise and enter the polo match into the third game, but they were few in number.

WILLIE STARS WIN

The Willie Stars defeated the All Stars Sunday afternoon on the South common, 15 to 8. The pitching of Richards and holding of Davey at shortstop were features. The Willie Stars have defeated such teams as the Universals, the Marltons, the Sileas and the Barclays. They would like to hear from any 15-16 year old team in the city. Answer through this paper or call 1533-W.

like a big leaguer. Carter and Lawless did good work on the mound, while Crowe, the first string catcher, was a hard worker and a good hitter. McCarthy at first base played a far better game than last season. Merivale at second, although a new player, improved steadily as the season progressed while McDowell and Riggs, outfielders, were both hard workers. Carterfield was played alternately by Carter and Lawless, the pitchers. Wells made a dependable third baseman.

The team was coached by D. Murray Cummings, master of the school, assisted by E. F. Quinn, janitor. The nine had a clean record throughout the season and never blanked a defeat on the umpire. The young players were out to win, but they took the result, whatever it was, like good sports. The nine lined up as follows: Crowe, c; Carter and Lawless, p; McCarthy, 1b; Merivale, 2b; Regnier, 3b; Wells, 4b; McDowell, 5b; Riggs, 6b; and A. Lawler, manager.

LOWELL FIREMEN TRIM LYNN TEAM

The baseball team of the first shift of the local fire department defeated the Lynn department team in Lynn yesterday, 4 to 1. The Lynn outfit had a 7-2 lead on the locals in the third inning when Symonds took up the pitching burden for Lowell and halted the Lynn onslaught. Symonds also had the honor of sending across the winning run.

HARVARD AND YALE IN SECOND GAME

CAMBRIDGE, June 22.—The baseball teams of Harvard and Yale met on Soldiers' Field today in the second game of their series. The crimson with a 4 to 2 victory gained at New Haven, yesterday. It was hoped that a game would be the last, Eddie Goode, its star pitcher, was available for use against Frank Cox, the pitching ace of the Yale squad.

"SHSH, IT'S A SECRET" WIFE OF DR. COX WAS ASTONISHED Mysterious Heavyweights, With Collars About Faces, Train With Carp.

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 22.—Mysterious things occurred this morning at Georges Carpentier's training camp and when an explanation was requested the answer came in a whisper: "Sh-sh, it's a secret and we cannot tell."

About 8 o'clock a big limousine stopped at the front gate and the chauffeur halted Trainer Wilson and the latter came down and opened the gate. The machine pulled inside and three heavyweights stepped from it. To conceal their identity, they pulled their collars about their faces and ran into the residence.

A few early birds who hung over the fence waited and watched. Soon they saw four men in hot clothes leave the back door and hasten behind the barn where Georges does his training. Noises sounding like the tattoo of a marching band could be heard for a time. Then there was silence for 30 minutes. First one and then another of the robed figures fled into the house. The last appeared to be the challenger himself. Trainer Wilson followed them carrying several pairs of boxing gloves.

CHAMPIONSHIP ROUNDS BEGIN TOMORROW

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 22.—(By the Associated Press.) Play in the British open golf championship was suspended today preliminary to the beginning of the championship rounds which begin tomorrow and continue through Friday. Seventy-two holes will be played during the two days by the golfers who qualified in the rounds of the old and new courses. Tomorrow and Tuesday, the match will be at medal play, and the golfer making the lowest score for the 72 holes of the two courses tomorrow and Friday, will win the championship.

Fourteen Americans were in the number which qualified for the actual tournament. They were: Jack Hutchinson, Jim Harper, Bobby Jones, Dr. Paul Hunter, J. Douglas, Edgar George McLean, Charles Hoffman, Fred McCall, Walter Higgs, George Morgan, Clarence Mackney, William McInerney, John Burgess and Emmett French. They joined the British golfers engaged in the two courses today.

WONDERFUL TENNIS EXPECTED TODAY

WIMBLEDON, England, June 22.—(By the Associated Press.) Several matches that promised to provide wonderful tennis were on the program at the British lawn tennis championship tournament here today. The contest in which the crowds took keenest interest was that between Major A. R. Kingdon and Francis Gordon Lowe, who for half a score of years have been one of the leading British players. Major Kingdon has been playing in the present tournament, and maintained the momentum at pace he set on Monday by defeating C. H. Dixon easily, yesterday.

Mrs. Mollie Hurst, Mallory of America, opposed Mrs. Arthur C. Green and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the California expert, played against Miss Kathleen McKane.

TO FORMALLY OPEN NEW GOLF COURSE

Tomorrow is to be something of a red letter day for local golfers. The recently opened 18-hole course of the Vesper-Country club is to be given its formal dedication, and two once brilliant stars in the golf firmament are coming here to participate in the event. The visitors will be Francis Outmet and Jesse Guilford. Although classed as "once brilliant stars" the two men are far from being in the also ran class, and a big gallery is expected to be out to witness the efforts of the top-notchers to negotiate the hazards of the new course for the first time.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Congress A. C., a 15-17-year-old team, challenges any team in the state at their age. The team is composed of all former school stars, many of the members being players on private schools. The team will be picked from the following players: Daley, Vaughan, Firth, Herson, Smith, Ward, Conlon, Ouellette, Laflamme, Garrity, Neelan, Conroy, Johnson, Ryan. For games answer through this paper or call 6288-R. J. Daley, manager.

The Nationals defeated the Regulars Saturday 5 to 2 and the Draxons Friday night 7 to 4, and would like to play any 14-15-year-old team in the city.

Says Gratitude Won't Permit Her To Remain Silent About Tanlac—Gains 18 lbs.—Health Restored

Mrs. T. B. Cox, wife of Dr. T. B. Cox, a prominent dentist, residing at 39 Watwick street, Boston, is now an ardent champion of the merits of Tanlac. While discussing Tanlac, which has been so beneficial to her, Mrs. Cox seemed profoundly grateful and in commenting on her improved condition, said:

"I feel that I would be ungrateful and neglectful of my duty if I did not tell suffering humanity what Tanlac has done for me. Why, at the time I began taking it I only weighed one hundred and eight pounds. I had fallen off from one hundred and fifty-five and was so thin that my clothes just hung upon me like a sack. But Tanlac is rapidly building me up to my normal weight and strength, as I now weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds, having gained eighteen pounds on four bottles.

"My health had been very poor for two years and there were times when I seemed like everything ailed me. I had no appetite and my stomach was in such a wretched condition that my food seemed to do me harm instead of good. I had such a bloated, stuffed-up feeling after eating I could scarcely breathe and the pains in the pit of my stomach were so severe I could not stand up straight. For two months at one time I thought I couldn't live. My nerves were all undone and many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep. Just before I got Tanlac I was looking so run-down and thin that many of my friends did not know me on first sight.

"Well, my hopes of recovery were about all gone when I saw Tanlac so highly praised and concluded to see if it would help me. I began to feel better almost immediately and my husband and myself are both astonished at the results I have received from the four bottles. My stomach acts like a new one, my appetite is so ravenous I can hardly eat enough to satisfy me, and I am feeling like a different person. My nerves are so calm that I sleep every night like a child. I have lots of new color in my cheeks, and my friends are all congratulating me on how well I am getting on. I have received from Tanlac with splendid results and we are always praising it to someone. It is just grand.

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; by Mrs. Mollie Hurst, Mallory, and by D. Patis Chelmsford Center, and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

It's Honeymoon in Gingham For "Songbird" Galli-Curci

GALLI-CURCI AND HUSB AND ON HONEYMOON

ST. LOUIS PARK, Minn., June 22.—Lorraine Ericson has a gingham dress and a $350,000 annual income.

She's wearing one and banking the other. The famous songbird and her husband, Homer Samuels, composer and accompanist, are spending their honeymoon at his home in this suburb, just outside of Minneapolis.

"This is the life," says the bride. And, down on her hands and knees in the garden, she chases the elusive caterpillar, and now and then picks a ripe, red strawberry.

"Of course, Homer can't understand why I spend so much time out in the hot sun. But he would play almost as long on the tennis court and think nothing of it."

And then a song comes from a distant fir tree.

"I have not heard such beautiful songbirds, even in my native land," she says. "I have learned to love the one you call the oriole. And there is the little thrush back of the garage that sings so exquisitely."

"Sometimes I hope I can spend all my time here with my husband and the birds and flowers. These will be wonderful days!"

LORRAINE ERICSON

BY ALICE ROHE

NEW YORK, June 22.—Miss Lorraine Ericson is just a dear little girl, 29, an hour's flight over New York City and across the Atlantic, who holds the world's record as an aeroplane pilot. Also, she's the first aero-perambulator baby in the flying boat. "It's the first time I ever was in a flying boat," Lorraine said. "And country, the champion long-distance rubber-necker of New York City and a whole lot of other things connected with airships."

Lorraine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Firth G. Ericson, of Toronto, Canada. She was born in New York and was brought to her native city by her parents the other day for the sole purpose of sight-seeing and of taking a flight in a flying boat.

Daddy Ericson is prominent in the aeroplane business. He was connected with the Imperial Air Force during the war and now is the representative of the Aeromarine plane in Canada.

"I ride with daddy every day," said Lorraine, after she had returned from an hour's flight over New York City and across the Atlantic. "It's the first time I ever was in a flying boat." Lorraine said. "And country, the champion long-distance rubber-necker of New York City and a whole lot of other things connected with airships."

Lorraine commutes with her father several times a week between his home in Toronto and New York City. When she was a year-old her mother thought she had swallowed a button and flew 35 miles with her to the nearest doctor. Since that day she isn't contented on land.

Lorraine has been up in the air longer than any other child, of her age in the United States and has 3000 air miles to her credit.

BOULEVARD DANCE HALL

Petition for Dance Pavilion
on Boulevard Denied by License Commission

The great question of the Pawtucket boulevard dance pavilion has apparently been settled for another year, and in the same manner. That is to say, the Richard brothers and Theophilus Loretto have been denied their petition for a license. The licensing commission made public this decision last evening at their regular weekly meeting, and the applicants were formally granted permission to withdraw. A vivid gathering was held a week ago when the board considered numerous petitions for the erection of a dance pavilion on the boulevard, while much fiery eloquence was also heard on the part of those representing the proprietors of the pavilion. The board afterwards went into private conference, but no indication of their attitude came forth until last evening, when they rendered a decision similar to that of last year.

The Richard and Loretto, in renewing their efforts to secure a permit this year, pointed out that the erection of the dance hall involved the investment of $20,000 of their capital. They offered to open the resort on a two weeks' trial, and professed a readiness to close it at the conclusion of that term those demonstrating toward their fears justified. These promises did not mollify those who objected to the license being bestowed, and they continued their endeavors to bring the license commissioners to their way of thinking.

The commission was petitioned last evening by the Retail Jewelers' association, to regulate the hours of auctioneering jewelry in this city. On June 15 a state law went into effect which confers this power upon the members of the board. A preliminary discussion of the matter of licensing auctioneers and other booths and features, for the carnival on the South common, during the Independence Day season, also was held, although final action will not be taken until later. A number of petitions for minor permits were acted upon, and the permits conferred.

Me-o-my,
how you'll take to a pipe—and P.A.!

Before you're a day older you want to let the idea slip under your hat that this is the open season to start something with a joy's jimmypipe—and some Prince Albert—and get your share of the greatest smoke-sport-on-earth!

Because, a pipe packed with Prince Albert—he-kind-tobacco—satisfies a man as he was never satisfied before—and keeps him satisfied! And, you can prove it!
Why—P.A.'s flavor and fragrance and coolness and its freedom from bite and parch

(cut out by our exclusive patented process) are a revelation to the man who never could get acquainted with a pipe! P.A. has made a pipe a thing of joy to four men where one was smoked before! And, you'll say so as soon as you start to cash-in on this smokehunch!

Ever roll up a cigarette with Prince Albert? Man, man—but you've got a party coming your way! Talk about a cigarette smoke; we tell you it's a peach! And P.A. rolls easily and stays put!

Prince Albert is sold in every red box, silver tins, handsome pound and half pound tin humidors and in the pound crystal glass tins, all with sponge moisture tap that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

Samuel W. Inman, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death, on April 14, of Hugh McGrogan, was found not guilty this morning, by Judge Enright, in the police court, and the case dismissed. On two other counts, however, charging violation of the motor vehicle laws, a finding of guilty was made, and a total fine of $50 was levied. Inman declared himself unable to pay, and requested an extension of time, but this was denied by the court.

"I have given this matter much consideration and thought," stated Judge Enright in relation to the manslaughter charge, "and have conferred with other justices of this court. But while I agree with Judge Pickman that there was a certain amount of criminal negligence, the evidence is not sufficient to send this man before the grand jury on a manslaughter charge."

After the defendant's arrest, he was released on surety of $2000 to await a hearing subsequent to the inquest report being filed. However, he failed to appear when his case was called, and was later taken into custody at Portland, Me., on the basis of a capias warrant, after he had been defaulted in the local court. He was brought back to Lowell and sent to the house of correction to wait for the calling of his case, as his surety was surrendered. In the interim, Judge Pickman submitted an inquest finding which stated that there was criminal negligence shown in the judgment of the court.

"No probable cause" was, however, Judge Enright's decision this morning. The other counts against Inman were operating without a license and operating without his vehicle being registered. On these counts, the assessment was made, and $25 was the assessment on each count. Counsel for the McGrogan family was present in the court room, and was informed by Judge Enright that no evidence appeared to the effect that the defendant was intoxicated at the time of the accident in which McGrogan met his death.

Back Porch and Dump Fire in Chelmsford Street

A back-porch fire called out the local apparatus at 10:03 o'clock, this morning. A house at 103 Chelmsford street was the scene of the conflagration, which the fire department authorities attributed to boys. Fifteen minutes' work succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

At 12:30 p. m., a telephone alarm came in concerning a dump fire on Chelmsford street, and apparatus responded.

WAS ALL RIGHT IN THE OLDEN DAYS

"He used to drink beer before prohibition, and then he was all right. But now he drinks jake," declared the wife of Frank Bilewski, who was in the police court this morning on charges of assault and battery upon her. He drew a two months' house of correction sentence, but this was suspended and he was given one more chance to behave himself. "Stop drinking and save your money," was Judge Enright's advice to the defendant, whom he warned that another complaint of abuse made by his wife would result in a sure term in confinement.

LOWELL MAN APPOINTED
BAIL COMMISSIONER

To a Lowell man, John B. Curtin, prominent in local labor union circles, has come the distinction of being the first individual to be appointed a bail commissioner by the chief justice and associate justices of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Curtin has just received notification of his appointment. Formerly, the bail commissioners were named by the governor and approved by the executive council, but under the state department reorganization act recently passed, the duty of naming this official devolved on the justices of the superior court. Mr. Curtin's appointment is certified to by Chief Justice John A. Alden and the various associate justices of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Curtin is a former vice president of the Lowell Trades & Labor council, president of the Massachusetts State Branch of Barbers, past dictator of the Lowell lodge, 615, Loyal Order of Moose, and former president of the Lowell Barbers' union. He lives at 21 Albion st.

Mr. Curtin has also served as secretary of the street railway home rule committee.

Peace in Ireland Imminent

King Opens Ulster Parliament With Appeal to Irish to Forgive and Forget and Join in New Era of Peace

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 22.—Sir John Foster Frasier of Edinburgh, speaking last night at Webster, near here, said: "Something will happen on Thursday to end the rioting and rebellion in Ireland. Watch the date, Thursday, and see if I am not right. I know what I am talking about. There will be peace in Ireland this week."

WAVE OF HEAT HITS LOWELL

Mercury Was at 90 Point in Merrimack Square Early This Afternoon

Many Find Relief in River at the New Municipal Bath House

Gardens Drying Up As Result of Long Period of Dry Weather

"Is it hot enough for you?" If you asked that question today you took chances of seeing stars. The law was off on hitting the mark when added to the warm weather woes of humanity by asking such a question.

At 2 p. m. in Merrimack square the mercury had reached the 90 mark and was apparently preparing to climb higher. Such breeze as there was seemed to have come from equatorial regions. The hazy sky indicated an excess of humidity in the atmosphere.

The heat sent many people to the municipal bathhouse on the shore of the Merrimack. The first jumps in temperature yesterday sent over 100 people to the bathhouse against only 50 people to the water Sunday. Today made a record for the season thus far.

Ready for Bathers
Superintendent Kernan has made preparations to care for a big influx of bathers. There are now accommodations at the new municipal swimming place for 400 persons at a time.

Lately an old polling booth has been turned over to the park department by the building department and this has been fixed-up for use by small boys who own their own bathing suit. There are places for the youngsters to hang up their clothes and also a shower bath for use after the boys leave the water. The use of the place is free.

Over 50 boys used the old polling booth yesterday, and a larger number today. Superintendent Kernan announces that it is possible that another

FAILURE OF CUPID TO FURNISH JUNE BRIDES

Possibly the business depression is responsible for a slackening of the activities of Cupid in Lowell. He is not providing his proper supply of June brides if he is to keep up with the record made the last few years. Last year, according to the records in City Clerk Stephen Flynn's office, up to the present time in June, 153 couples had signed their intention of entering the married state. This year only 116 young Juliet and their Romeo have made known a similar intention. Up to this morning there had been 513 applications made for marriage licenses thus far this year against 658 up to the same time last year.

WHY? WHY? WHY?

WHY get up tired or with a headache in the morning? Take one or two TEKOL before arising will make you feel fine and ready for business?

WHY be tired at night, when one or two TEKOL tablets taken about four o'clock will relieve fatigue, refresh and brace you up so that you will feel fine the rest of the day and evening?

WHY suffer from headache, brain fatigue or the "Blues," when TEKOL gives quick relief and makes you feel fine?

TEKOL will improve the action of weak, sick or sluggish kidneys, and nerve centers, increasing circulation of the blood, nerve-force and vital energy.

YOU can get TEKOL also Testimonial circulars from Dows & Co., Merrimack square, Lowell, and other reliable druggists.—ADV.

1000 Policemen Massed on Pier to Preserve Order as Liner Olympic Docks

Not Even When Wilson Returned From Paris Were More Thorough Plans Made

NEW YORK, June 22.—Rear Admiral Sims returned home today to explain to Secretary Danby remarks attributed to him in his recent London speech on Irish-Americans.

Refusing to be taken ashore by a cutter, he came up the bay aboard the liner Olympic to meet friends or foes who might be awaiting him near the pier.

Everything was peaceful when he landed. A thousand bluecoats were massed on the dock to preserve order. Indeed, they were so numerous that, with wharf workers and passengers, it would have been difficult for many other persons to have found foothold on the pier.

Police lines were drawn several blocks north and south of the pier entrance. Not even when Woodrow Wilson returned from the peace conference were more thorough preparations made.

The admiral was the first person to step ashore, into an automobile with Rear Admiral Huse, commandant of the third naval district. Planked by police, he drove away, announcing he would take the first train for Washington.

There were scarcely anyone on the dock. From the handful of persons who had gathered there came

DEDHAM, June 22.—The prosecution rested and the defense opened today in the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for the killing of a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree a year ago. AUTOMOBILES WRECKED

Several Persons Had Narrow Escape From Serious Injury in Auto Crash

Three automobiles were wrecked and several people had a narrow escape from serious if not fatal injury this afternoon when three automobiles came together on the Boston highway in Tewksbury Centre a short distance from Chadler's corner.

One of the automobiles that figured in the accident is owned by Charles Cote, a lively man of this city and in the machine were his wife and child. They were on their way to Boston with Fred Morin, an employee of Mr. Cote, at the wheel, shortly after 1 o'clock.

When the machine reached a spot beyond Chandler's corner, a Buick car headed towards Lowell, collided with another machine, which was going in the direction of Boston. Mr. Morin swung to the right and hugged the edge of the road in order to clear the way for the Lowell-bound car, but apparently the driver of the latter car lost control of the wheel and his machine crashed into the Cote car.

Dr. Parker of this city, who happened along, rushed Mrs. Cote and her child to the state infirmary, where it was found that they were suffering only from a bad shaking-up. The occupants of the other machines escaped without injuries, but the three machines were wrecked and for the greater part of the afternoon blocked traffic on the Boston line, as the debris of the machines was scattered all over the tracks. The names of the owners or occupants of the other machines could not be learned.

AMERICA WINS POLO CUP BY DEFEATING GREAT BRITAIN IN TWO STRAIGHT MATCHES

HURLINGHAM POLO FIELD, LONDON, June 22.—(By the Associated Press)—America today regained possession of the international polo trophy, defeating Great Britain in the second match, 10 to 6, and winning the series, two matches to none.

The match was for the best two in three games. The American team won the first game, played last Saturday, by 11 to 4.

By today's American victory the trophy which the British team took home to England as a result of its victory at Meadowbrook in 1914, returns to the United States. The trophy is a cup which has been contested for since 1885. The match just concluded was the eighth international series, of which each nation has won four.

A feature of today's match was the plucky return to the game of J. Watson Webb, No. 8 on the American team after an injury to his stick hand. His finger was bandaged in the pavilion and he rejoined his team, playing brilliantly and not long after scoring the ninth goal for the team.

Col. George Harvey, the American ambassador, was among the first arrivals in the royal box. King Alfonso of Spain, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught and his daughter, Patricia, now the wife of Commander Alexander R. M. Ramsey, motored up later. As the Prince of Wales stepped from his car the crowds stood and cheered, while the hands played: "God Save the King." "The Star Spangled Banner" followed.

The players' mounts paraded the field, the 25 American ponies leading with the 22 British ponies behind. The contingents were headed by Roy Scouts, each bearing the national colors of the teams.

FIGHT ON OVER STREET PETITION

Commerce Chamber Secretary Denies Statement Made at City Council Meeting

Says City Contract Work Will Not Eliminate Street Department

CHAMBER PLANS AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN TO PUT THE INITIATIVE PETITION OVER

The adoption by the voters of Lowell of the recommendation of the chamber of commerce that street paving hereafter be done in this city only by contract will not mean the virtual wiping out of the street department as contended at yesterday's meeting of the municipal council, it was vigorously asserted by chamber of commerce officials today.

"There will be plenty of work to take up the time and equipment of the street department in repair jobs alone even though all construction and reconstruction work is let out by contract," said Secretary-Manager George F. Wells in discussing yesterday's action of the municipal council in referring the chamber's petition to a special election in August. "A trip over a few of our streets will convince anybody of that. The chamber's petition does not seek to have repair work done by contract. It leaves that to the province of the regular employees of the street department. We believe there is enough repair work to be done on streets in a city of Lowell's size to keep the personnel and equipment of our street department working at full capacity."

BOSTON, June 22.—General Charles H. Taylor, editor and publisher of the Boston Globe, died at his home here at 10 a. m. today. He had been fairly active until recently, but two shocks within a week of each other, preceded the end. He was 75 years old.

CAPTURE ARMED MEN IN BELFAST

BELFAST, June 22.—(By the Associated Press)—The police in the upper Falls district of this city, hearing firing in that area today, pursued eight men they suspected and captured three of them who were found to have ammunition in their possession.

Soldiers with machine guns occupied vantage points in the Falls district.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT BELFAST

Crowds Acclaim King and Queen—First Visit of Sovereigns in 20 Years

Hopes Visit Will Mark First Step Towards End of Strife in Ireland

BELFAST, June 22.—(By the Associated Press)—"I speak from a full heart," said King George in his speech formally opening the Ulster parliament today, "when I pray that my coming to Ireland today may prove to be the first step towards an end of strife amongst her own people, whatever their race or creed."

"In that hope I appeal to all Irishmen to pause, to stretch out the hand of forbearance and conciliation, to forgive and to forget, and to join in making for the land which they love a new era of peace, contentment and good will."

"It is my earnest desire that in southern Ireland, too, there may ere long take place a parallel to what is now passing in this hall; that there a similar occasion may present itself and a similar ceremony be performed."

King George and Queen Mary departed from Belfast for London in perfect safety at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

CHEER AND JEER AT CONVENTION

Wild Scenes When Delegates Favoring Boycott Took Floor to Attack Compers

Resolution Expressing Sympathy for the Irish Republic Adopted by A. F. of L.

DENVER, Colo., June 22.—After a stormy debate the American Federation of Labor convention today disposed of the Irish question by adopting a resolution—trimmed of its most drastic boycott provisions—expressing sympathy for the Irish cause.

The appeal of the boycott supporters from the ruling of President Gompers provoked one of the stormiest sessions in the history of the federation. Cheers and jeers were unbridled as the boycotters took the floor and attacked Mr. Gompers, who had ruled out their motion to have the boycott declaration added to the resolution expressing sympathy for the Irish republic by a committee.

The action of the convention completed the defeat of the supporters of the boycott declaration, which they claimed had been drafted by "high officials of the Irish republic." The boycott supporters contested every effort to bring the sympathetic resolution to a vote, without its boycott provisions, by raising points of order and attempting to have the entire matter referred back to the committee for reconsideration.

The convention unanimously adopted a resolution urging modification of the Volstead act to permit manufacture and sale of beer. Officers and the executive council were instructed to work for a change in the law and if this should not be successful, all unions would be called on to petition congress.

STILL HOPES TO FIND TUG

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The names of the four officers and 49 enlisted men aboard the lost naval tug Conestoga were made public today by Secretary Denby, who said he still refused to abandon hope that the tug or her company would be found. She sailed from Mare Island March 25 for Samoa, via Pearl Harbor, and no word has been heard from her since despite a thorough search of Pacific waters. The following were on the crew list compiled from the last muster roll:

Lieut. Ernest L. Jones, commanding, St. Van Zandt avenue, Newport, R. I.; Boatswain Harry H. Reinbold, executive officer, Bethlehem, Pa.; Machinist Louis A. Liscomb, engineer officer, Salida, Colo.; Boatswain Roy E. Hofess, ordnance officer, 430 or 225 Pine street, Providence, R. I.; James Flynn, Taunton of Whitinsville, Mass.; Joseph M. LEWIS BOOM TAKES SLUMP

Ladies' Garment Workers Switch Their 941 Votes to President Gompers

Others Desert Lewis—Gompers Boomers Predict Overwhelming Victory

DENVER, Colo., June 22.—The boom of John L. Lewis for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor today took a slump.

Under instructions from their executive board, the delegates of the Ladies' Garment Workers switched their 941 votes from the mine workers' president to Samuel Gompers.

The three delegates of the United Mine Workers commanding 1696 votes were also reported to have deserted their leader for Gompers. Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers' district, who has already announced his opposition to Lewis, was reported on his way back to Denver from Illinois, where he had been called on business.

While the Lewis supporters admitted that their own delegation would be split, they claimed sufficient votes had been pledged by the metal trades, the railroad organizations which together with the machinists' union and the carpenters and joiners, would elect their candidate. Their lineup gave them approximately 20,000 of the 38,294 votes in the convention.

The Gompers boomers declared that they were sure of at least 30,000 votes—nearly 10,000 more than needed to win.

Labor leaders declare that the contest may be so close that the 214 votes of the state central bodies, trade and federal labor unions and fraternal organizations may decide the winner.

While campaigners of both candidates were at work, the Irish question was before the convention and a bitter fight was being waged by a group of Irish sympathizers to have a resolution adopted providing for a boycott of American organized labor of British-made products and British concerns. They were opposed by another group whose resolution expressing sympathy for the Irish cause, was reported favorably by the resolutions committee.

Unknown Species of Feather

Family Given Freedom of the Wilds

After stirring the scientists, animal lovers and mystery-fanciers of all Lowell, as they have never before been stirred, and after making it necessary for Agent Charles Richardson of the Lowell Humane Society to answer more questions than have been answered in all the cities and towns of Massachusetts, the strange raw-meat-eating, ferocious and unknown bird captured in the Highlands district a few days ago has departed for his native swamps, trees, or whatever form of open country he craves.

In a story published yesterday by The Sun, the first news of the finding of this curious creature was given to the people of Lowell. Immediately a storm of argument, theorizing, querying and other intellectual excitement was aroused, with Agent Richardson, the possessor of the bird, the centre of it all. Hardly had the first edition of The Sun reached the street yesterday afternoon, when a deluge of telephone calls, personal interviews and other forms of communication started coming in at the Humane Society headquarters and at the Jennings street residence of Mr. Richardson. One student of the habits of feathered bipeds called up and said he'd hold the line while Agent Richardson went out into his garage, where the bird was confined, to ascertain if the creature had webbed feet. "If he has webbed feet," announced this party, "he is a loon. In fact, I'm sure he's a loon." But it so happens that the bird didn't have webbed feet.

A lady connected with the Audubon Society, devoted to the study of birds, insisted that the animal was a bittern. But bitterns are larger than this creature, says Agent Richardson, who has seen many of them. Perhaps a description of the bird may help to identify him, and solve the mystery. He had a long body, with enormous wings, having a sweep of three feet, a bill a foot long, a neck that reached into his shoulders, hair on top of his head which stood erect when he felt reviled and he ate raw meat, half a pound of it at a sitting, or rather at a standing, for he was never observed to sit. Yesterday he also showed a fondness for fish and saw meat, which he ate voraciously.

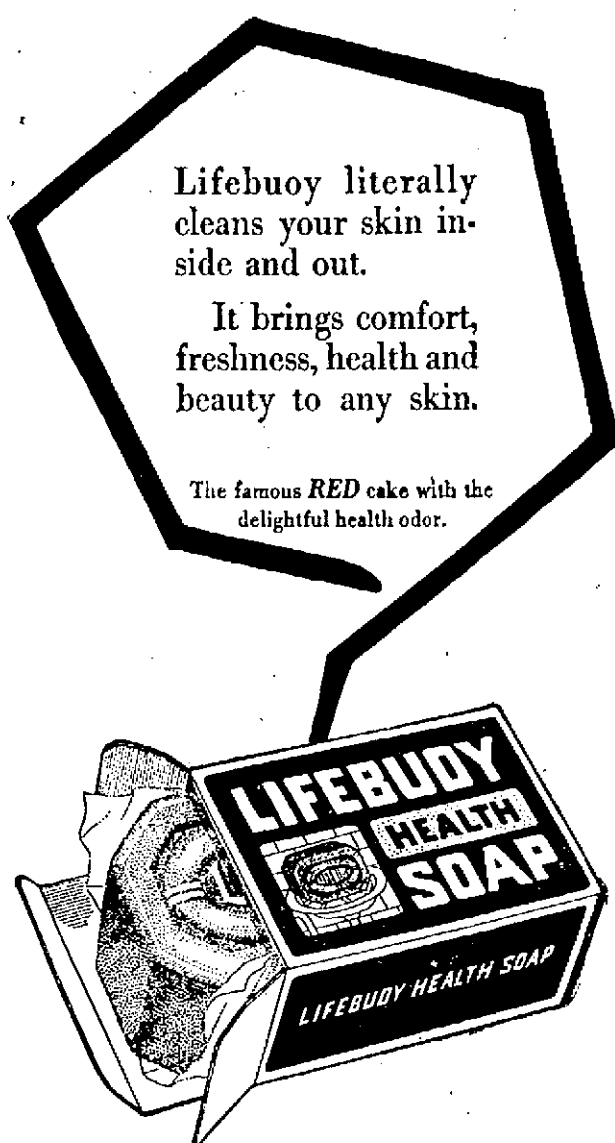

Just prior to noon today he was taken

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR JUDGE LILLEY

Memorial services for the late Judge Charles S. Lilley were held this afternoon at the police court by the members of the Lowell Bar association. Resolutions were presented by a committee headed by Judge John J. Pickman, and numbering also the following: Attorneys Francis W. Qua, John J. Harvey, James H. Carmichael and J. J. Kerwin.

A number of eloquent tributes were paid to the memory of the deceased by Francis W. Qua, James H. Carmichael, James J. Kerwin, Charles H. McIntyre, and Frederic A. Fisher. In conclusion Judge Thomas R. Enright, who presided as president of the association, spoke at length of Judge Lilley. A portrait of the deceased was temporarily hung upon the wall of the court room during the services.

CHARGED WITH LOOTING STRAWBERRY PATCH

Five local boys, ranging from 8 to 11 years of age, will be in the juvenile session of the police court on Friday charged with looting a strawberry patch, the property of a prominent Lowell resident. This was given out at headquarters this morning. "This invasion of people's premises, with the tramping down of growing things, and the theft of fruits and vegetables, is going to stop," declared a high police official. He stated that the authorities would not be satisfied if restitution was made but that more rigorous measures would be sought. It is hoped that vigorous prosecution of lawless and malicious youngsters who slich from gardens which have received long and arduous attention from their owners, may act as a deterrent in future instances. Only a few days ago complaint was made that cherry trees were being denuded of their succulent fruit by urchins regardless of the rights of their possessors. In the present case, each of the five alleged youthful culprits is said to have taken unto himself large helpings of strawberries, to the wrath of the owner, who had felt great pride in his patch.

ceremonies of the empire, and its welcome helped make the occasion a memorable one. The ceremony of the opening was similar to that attending the inauguration of the British parliament at Westminster, and was a brilliant spectacle. There was but little room in the city hall, where the function took place, for those having cards of admission, but it was a distinguished assembly that watched an event regarded whatever may follow it, as marking an important epoch in Irish history. Sinn Fein and nationalist members of the parliament did not participate in the exercises.

Enthusiastic Demonstrations

From the moment their yacht Victoria and Albert dropped her anchor at the entrance to Belfast Lough to make her way up the straight channel to the dock, the king and the queen were the objects of enthusiastic demonstrations by the loyalists of Ulster. The people of County Down on the south side of the Lough and County Antrim, on the northern shore, vied in extending greetings.

An even noisier welcome awaited the royal pair as their yacht steamed past the shipyards, where the cheers of thousands of workmen mingled with the shrieks of siren and whistle. King George and his consort stood on the bridge of the steamer and acknowledged the greeting.

Monarchs Heavily Guarded

As soon as the monarchs set foot on the dock, the royal salute boomed out, announcing that they were on Irish soil, and the crowds that lined the long street leading to the city hall strained at the barrier walls of soldiery and peered to catch a glimpse of the approaching procession. The wait was short, for with the exception of the formal reception by Viscount Fitzalan, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and Lord Pierle who appeared in behalf of the city, where there were no ceremonies at the dock, a squadron of police headed the procession and the carriages of the royal pair were followed by those of officers and dignitaries. On each side of the street was stationed a force of nearly 6000 regular troops, standing shoulder to shoulder and separated from the crowds by a heavy railing. In other parts of the city police kept vigilant guard against untoward incidents.

Entertained by Premier

Arriving at city hall the king and the queen were met by the lord mayor and members of the Belfast council, and the sovereigns proceeded at once to the council room, where the ceremonies immediately began. When they were completed, the king and queen were entertained at luncheon by Sir James Craig, the premier of Ulster, after which they were driven once more through the flag-decked streets to Ulster hall, where they received addresses of loyalty from various organizations.

SENATORS OF SOUTHERN IRELAND ASK NEW PLAN

LONDON, June 22. (By A. P.)—The senators of Southern Ireland have sent a memorial to Premier Lloyd George asking that the powers of the government be extended to the south of Ireland.

Having been elected to serve in the senate in Southern Ireland, we desire to place on record in accepting such appointment that we do so with the intention of exercising the fullest freedom of action regarding the powers to be hereafter granted the parliament and government of Southern Ireland.

We are of the opinion that the powers given under the present act are insufficient to enable the present government of Southern Ireland to be carried on with any prospect of success, and having regard for the speech of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland on June 7, we urge upon the government that the earliest possible steps be taken to reconstitute the act.

"We desire further to make it clear that we are ready to act in the second chamber with a lower house sitting constitutionally as representing a majority of the electors, but we are not prepared to exercise our functions in connection with anybody nominated by the Lord Lieutenant to replace the elected lower house."

Salisbury Blames Government

The house of lords resumed yesterday the debate on the Irish situation adjourned from June 16. Lord Salisbury blamed the government for its failure to postpone the elections in the south. He said the elections had simply provided an opportunity for the Irish people to declare in favor of a republic, for moderate opinion was completely controlled by extreme opinion.

The government could only continue to experiment, but ought to announce any amendments to the home rule act it was prepared to propose.

The Earl of Desart doubted whether anything could be achieved by private negotiations.

Lord Dunsen emphasized the chaos and confusion prevailing in Ireland and said that deliverance could come only by legislation amending the act in a direction which would be supported by moderate opinion.

The government, he declared, had made a mistake in not appealing straight to the Irish people. He did not believe they were republicans at heart. While nobody could say that a liberal measure would be accepted now, he was positive it would have been accepted six months ago. He urged the government to put it to the test.

Viscount Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor, alluding to the viceroy's recent speech, which he construed as implying that the home rule act needed prompt and drastic amendment, said it was not the object of the viceroy to make any important pronouncement on the subject of policy.

GARDEN INSECTS

The dry, warm weather we are experiencing is ideal for the propagation of garden insect pests of practically every nature. The plants are making comparatively little growth, insects are hatching and multiplying in vast numbers. Insect injury is always detrimental. It is even worse during a period like we are experiencing at the present time.

The rose chaffer is a very serious pest in certain localities. Where one has only a few rose bushes, it is probably best to pick them off by hand. If there are many, a spray of kerosene in the bottom and a single jar them off into the mail works splendidly for protecting a limited number of plants. Spraying the plants with self-bolled lime sulphur is probably one of the best ways of combating this pest on large areas.

The asparagus beetle is very common on most asparagus beds this season. After the cutting is finished, this insect can be very easily controlled by using the arsenical spray upon the shoots.

The common potato bug can be very easily controlled by either arsenic green or arsenate of lead spray. Arsenate of lead is a little bit safer, and there is comparatively little danger in using it. Approximately 1 pound of arsenate of lead in ten gallons of water is the right strength. A somewhat weaker solution than this can be made if the bugs are attacked when they are very small.

The common potato bug can be very easily controlled by either arsenic green or arsenate of lead spray. Arsenate of lead is a little bit safer, and there is comparatively little danger in using it. Approximately 1 pound of arsenate of lead in ten gallons of water is the right strength. A somewhat weaker solution than this can be made if the bugs are attacked when they are very small.

PARIS, May 25.—Of all the cities of France Reims was the worst war sufferer. Twice falling into the hands of the enemy, in 1914 and in 1918, it was, throughout the war, always within range of the German artillery, whose guns registered on the lofty cathedral towers, and then almost daily swept the surrounding area with their fire. Despite a full year's work of rehabilitation, but slight impression has been made upon this heap of ruins which is about all that is left of the heart of one of the fairest cities in France.

As if to mock the hands that sought to profane and destroy, the great cathedral still stands, a thing of fragile beauty, no longer merely one of the most beautiful buildings in the world, but one of the world's most sacred. Roofless, with its incomparable windows destroyed, scarred by fire, and scarred by shell, nevertheless, this masterpiece of Gothic architecture still delights the eye with its lace-like detail and, inevitably, turns one's thoughts to the God, in whose honor men build, and who must have looked down upon its wanton desecration, with plying sorrow, that men who presume to call upon His name with reverence, could put his temple to such base use. Hate of the vile thing in human nature which could make such a crime possible becomes holy in the shadow of the cathedral.

We reverently passed within to find a religious service in progress. More than four years of German hate had not sufficed to prevent the cathedral continuing to be the sacred place of worship for the survivors of Reims. Within these walls one forgot distinctions of creed and sect, the mere method of worship of the one God of Christianity became a matter of indifference, and each in his, or her, way said a prayer of thankfulness that right and justice had prevailed over brute lust for power.

Reims to Chateau Thierry
From Reims to Chateau Thierry we followed the high water mark of the last German drive for Paris and victory through Villers-en-Tardenois, Chaulillon to the Marne, at Dormans, where Americans disputed the crossing with the Germans until the waters of the river ran red with human blood. The fierceness of the attack and defense along the highway we traversed was attested by the scars on the roadside trees. Here were but a few marks of shell fire—the advance of the Germans and the retreat of the French was so swift that German guns were left far in the rear, and the French guns were being withdrawn to prevent capture—without exception the trees were marked with rifle and machine gun bullets, not exceptional trees, but every tree, the trenches, the concentration of musketry which drove the French. It was significant that most of the scars came from the German advance. There were few scars to show that the French replied. There is a bridge across the Marne at Chateau Thierry that invokes precisely the same sentiments in the heart of an American as those which surge up as one looks, for the first time, upon that little bridge at Concord, which marked the beginning of the fight for liberty from oppression in a new world. Here the liberties of both new, and old, worlds were preserved, and the glory of America is that it was her sons who stood and challenged successfully the powers of reaction and oppression, at two of the greatest moments in human history.

Americans Unsupported
The Americans at Chateau Thierry were without artillery support. For them it was a machine gun fight with little opportunity to organize their position, but they found emplacements for their guns in the buildings that commanded the crossing, and although the Germans brought up their guns and hammered the buildings into ruins, they never succeeded in achieving the bridgehead. Always the American guns continued their trip-hammer salvo, and every German that reached the bridge fell, before he reached the farther side. There is, as yet, naught to mark the spot save the broken walls behind which the Americans fought. Some day, one hopes, some great artist will provide a suitable memorial for this spot which will always be a place of inspiring pride and reverent affection for Americans, as long as the republic endures.

Belleau Wood
Through Bourges and Veaux, villages men of the 24th will not forget, to Belleau Wood, that cauldron of whirling shells and suffocating gas, where the gallant Second Division and the equally gallant Yankee Division fought their way in that great drive which gave the Germans admittance of the disaster which had begun east its shadow before. Here we found castles of boulders, bearing the name of the Second Division, each marking the jump-off of the consecutive advances which eliminated the Marne salient, of the last desperate German thrust. Similar monuments should mark the operations of the Yankee Division, for my New England pride refuses to yield all the glory of that wonderful fight in Belleau Wood to the Second alone. The division that took up the task where the Second, exhausted, laid it down, is entitled to its due share of the credit for as brilliant a feat of arms as any the war saw.

The healing touch of nature has done much to rob the Wood of its horrors. The ground is overgrown with brush, and many of the broken trees are again robed in green, but above the foliage the naked arms of the dead trees stretch up to tell of the killing blast which once swept every inch of the wooded hillside. The trenches are tumbled in, and nearly obliterated, but the ground has the familiar tortured look of land where men dug themselves in, and where men tried to blast them out. The wheat field, where many a marine fell before the machine gun fire of the boches, is again a wheat field, with waving grain, like that which gave so poor a shelter three years ago.

An American Cemetery

At the lower edge of the Wood where the Americans strayed at the last awaiting the order to go on, the men who died so gallantly find their resting place. We have seen many French, British and Italian cemeteries. This was our first American shrine, and we found it incomparably the best kept, the most attractive of them all. In the graveyards of our allies the ground is bare, but over the places where Americans lie, the sweet, green grass is growing, shrubbery has been planted, and in the center is the staff from which floats the flag for which these men died. Nowhere, outside of America, does it look more beautiful, nor accent more forcefully the great principles and the great nation of which it is the symbol.

Just at the side of the entrance is a little hostess house, presided over by two splendid American women, secretaries of the Young Women's Christian association, who are there to comfort and to aid the sorrowing relatives of men whose last resting place they have sought. It constitutes a touch which is unique. We found no other nation whose men died in France following this course, so palpably dictated by affectionate sympathy for those whose sacrifice was greatest. Personally I regret that so many of the fallen Americans are to be taken from the ground their valor won, from the scene of the great sacrifice. Here they lived greatly and died nobly, and here, it would seem, they sleep their long sleep most appropriately. But this is pure sentiment. I would not do as some are doing, try to prevent their removal by unwarranted stories of ghastly injuries to the bodies of those whose duty is to see to the exhumation and shipment home of the bodies of the dead. I personally saw some of this work being done and talked with the responsible officers. The work is done carefully and reverently. But, by chance, I saw a German brought in from an isolated, just discovered grave. If the folks at home only knew, they would leave the poor broken bodies here, where they fell, in the most righteous cause for which men ever fought and died.

CITY ELECTION COSTLY

Expense of Over $5000 To Ascertain Voters' Will on Initiative Order

The cost to the city of the special election, to be held early in August, to pass upon the chamber of commerce's initiative order forbidding the reconstruction or reconstruction of streets except by contractors, will be in excess of $5000, according to figures made public at the office of the election commissioners today.

According to these figures 224 precinct officers are due to receive $10 for a day's work, or a total of $2240; 28 clerks $11 a day, or a total of $308; six clerks in city hall for tabulating on election night at $7 each, or a total of $42.

In addition 25 school janitors are in for a comfortable windfall in the shape of $5 each for opening the polling places in the morning and locking the doors at night. The total amount is $140.

Twenty-eight ballot boxes must be toted to the voting booths and carted back to city hall. For this service truckmen will receive $2.50 for each box that they handle or a total of $70. The printing of the ballots, posters and instruction card will cost at least $400, it is estimated.

The work of erecting the polling places will be done by the building department and the cost thereof charged up to the election commissioners' appropriation. It is stated that this expense will probably amount to about $2000.

The total of all the various items is $5200. In addition there are numerous miscellaneous supplies such as pens, pencils and candles to be paid for. It will be necessary to use the 1920 list of voters at the coming election, according to a statement made this morning by Chairman Hugh C. McCosker of the election commission. The 1921 lists for only four precincts of the city have been completed thus far and it is not expected that lists for all of the precincts will be ready before September. Assurance is given that no person will lose his or her vote because of a change of residence since the lists for 1920 were made up.

It is possible that the election commissioners may open their books for a short period of registration prior to the special election. The period will necessarily be short as the election must take place in from 40 to 50 days from yesterday and registration by law must close at least 20 days before an election is held.

There is a conflict of opinion in city hall over the question of whether the municipal council or the election commission has the authority to prescribe the hours during which the polls shall be kept open on the day of the election. The city charter provides simply that the council shall "call a special election," and there is no provision for fixing the hours during which the polls shall be open.

JOURNEYMEN PLUMBERS ARE STILL ON STRIKE

There are no new developments in the journeymen plumbers' strike, although it was stated today that a turn of affairs is expected within a couple of days. More U-Boats Targets of Naval Gunners

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., June 22.—Two more former German submarines will form targets for naval marksmanship today when a division of Atlantic fleet destroyers train their guns on the under-sea craft while at anchor near the spot where the U-117 was sent to the bottom yesterday in a bombing attack by naval seaplanes. While the question at issue yesterday was whether the vessel could be sunk at all by an air attack, that involved in today's program was simply how quickly the destroyers' guns could turn the trick.

"I Hate It! I Hate It!" Cries Richest Girl in the World. What? Money!

DELLORA ANGELL

BY R. J. GIBBONS
CHICAGO, June 22.—"Money! How I hate it!"

There's no fun being rich. All my wealth has brought but sorrow and discomfort. I'd like to lose every penny—just dump the whole mess some place!

The speaker was the richest girl in the world, Miss Dellora Angell, who's 18 and worth $10,000,000. She swears she is the "poor little rich girl" of the fairy tale.

An accounting just filed in the courts shows that $175,000 was spent on her in the last two years—$300 a day.

At 16 she inherited all the millions amassed during a spectacular life-time by her famous uncle, "Big Al" Miller, John W. Gates, the traction magnate.

I interviewed Dellora at her million-dollar palace in Lake Forest, where her every movement is closely guarded. She wore a very simple dress of white. She appeared most disconsolate. In a plaintive voice this child of the gilded cage said that "gold is not everything."

"Do you know," she continued, "I'm just sick and tired of being pampered and fawned over. I want to get out and do something worth while."

"Like what?" I inquired.

"Well, like helping other people. Giving their children a chance, for example. But here," she surveyed the room with a sweep of her hand—"it's just sameness—dress for luncheon, school, sitting in stuffy rooms, talking meaningless talk. Oh, it's so boring!"

"But shouldn't you be content, surrounded with everything most people struggle all their lives to get—money?" I suggested.

"Some people are quite silly and I'm not," exclaimed Dellora. "So, please remember that."

"Money is a bother. I hope to use mine for good works—education and charity. But just yet, of course, I've made no definite plans."

"Naturally I'm grateful for what has been given to me. But look at all the good times I miss because I'm rich."

"Before I became so wealthy, I could go outside and walk through the town without fear. Now it's different. Somebody might try kidnapping me."

"And then all this fuss they make over me, too—it's disgusting. I hate it, I'm tired of being in the public eye. You can't imagine how terrible it is!"

"Miss Angell, what would you care to do and be above everything else?" I asked her.

She paused for just a moment and then replied.

"Most of all?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'll tell you—but you mustn't laugh! I want a little house for my very own, with no maids or servants—and a nice little kitchen with a stove and everything."

"You see, I'm fond of cooking, and oh, I can bake the dandiest pies and cakes, and make the loveliest salads. They taste fine dad says so."

"Is that all you want—just the house? Isn't there going to be a good-looking husband around some place to make the scene complete?" I ventured.

"For a moment she was confused."

"Perhaps—perhaps, some time. But just now I can't think of husbands. I'm too busy learning how to live and how to manage all this money."

She denied specifically that she's engaged—a report that has been current a dozen times. She denied, too, that she especially favors any one young man.

"I want to be a simple, natural girl. Folks probably imagine I sleep in a gold bed and swim in lakes of pearls. But they're wrong. I spend very little money on myself. I have a little spending account for a month—not very much—about $100 a month. Please let people know I'm not a waster. I'm not going to be an idle spender—not on my life!"

"We're here to help others, and when we die—but of course, I'm not planning on anything like that now—you don't take a penny with you; not a cent."

Dellora is unassuming; her eyes are a wonderful brown; her hair is brown; too every movement is graceful; her entire bearing bespeaks refinement and culture.

LOWELL MAN RECEIVED GREAT RESULTS IN STOMACH TROUBLE FROM THE HERBAL TONIC CINOT

Mr. Joe Horwitz of 174 Howard Street, Lowell, is Praising CINOT As It Is the Only Remedy That Helped Him At All

Mr. Horwitz says "I was ashamed to go into a restaurant after eating as I would belch up gas so much and I haven't for a long time eaten a meal without great distress and gas."

"I heard of CINOT because it helped so many of my friends and I decided it was the medicine for me and I used it and today I am a well man."

SCHWAB SAYS GREATEST ERA DAWNING

HOBOKEN, N. J., June 22.—Charles M. Schwab told members of the graduating class at Stevens Institute of Technology yesterday that he would be willing to give whatever fame or wealth had come to him if he could be one of them, because the greatest era of development in the history of the world was dawning.

"To men like you," he said, "will come the opportunity of making yourselves invaluable in the rebuilding of civilization. There will be no monument of stone or marble to mark my passing, but I hope that rows of burning furnaces and smoke stacks will mark my contribution of mine to the development of the great country."

UNIFORM WAGE CUT REJECTED

BROCKTON, June 22.—Individual arbitration of wage agreements by department with each of the hundred or more shoe manufacturers in this district has been requested by representatives of the several unions.

The Brockton Shoe Manufacturers' association announced yesterday that a three-hour conference with the union representatives had demonstrated that it would be impossible to reach an agreement for an adjustment embodying a wage reduction for all workers.

The manufacturers' plan for a blanket arbitration proceeding before the state board of the proposal for a uniform wage cut of 20 per cent. was rejected. The unionists' contracts were with individual manufacturers and not with the association.

The union request was taken under advisement by the association.

GEORGE HUNT DEAD

After lying for many hours unconscious with a compound fracture of the skull at the Lowell Corporation hospital, George T. Hunt, 40, employed as a chauffeur by the Nelson-Morris Beef company, died about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He is survived by his parents, William J. and Annie (Gagne) Hunt; three brothers, Charles F., William J., Jr., and Gilbert L. Hunt; and two sisters, Mary J. and Helena Hunt. The members of his family are all residents of this city. The body was removed from the hospital to the undertaking rooms of James W. McKenna, on Bridge street.

It is stated that Hunt, prior to the accident which resulted fatally for him, had borrowed the Ford machine of his friend, Raymond Morley, and was bound for Osgood street to visit acquaintances. It was reported that the car was seen racing up and down Westford street Monday afternoon, but this is declared to be false, and it is said to have been a car of similar appearance that was seen. Prior to his employment by the Nelson-Morris company, he worked as a chauffeur for the D. L. Page Co.

The contract for the construction of 3100 feet of state highway as an extension to the East Abington highway, has been awarded by the Massachusetts department of public works to the Hancosm Construction Co., of Boston, the cost of the work to be $16,525. It is said that the tardiness of the board of selectmen of the town in filing the proper petitions has resulted in the town losing the privilege of doing the work with local labor.

DESCRIBES MORMON METHODS
The methods used by missionaries of the Mormon church in their efforts to gather in converts were described last night by Dr. J. M. Tibbets, manager of the Boston office of the National Reform association, at a meeting in the Young Men's Christian association hall. Dr. Tibbets asserted that a campaign for gathering converts is now being carried on all over the country.

He had been associated with printer's ink from boyhood, when, at the age of 15 he was for part of each day alternately on duty in the composing room and the mailing room, and, on the way home, took papers to the railroad stations in a wheelbarrow. At 16 he went to war, a private in the 88th Massachusetts regiment and one of the youngest soldiers who served in the Civil war.

Returning wounded, he passed from apprenticeship to printer, and thence to reporter. After serving as governor's secretary and legislator, he accepted an offer, previously rejected, to manage the financially unsuccessful Boston Globe. This was in 1872. It was a hard fight, with the paper from day to day only a jump ahead of the sheriff as General Taylor in later years was wont to describe the situation. The paper lost $50,000 a year for five years but eventually became a success through the revolutionary methods of its manager.

To his reportorial staff, General Taylor always made his personality a live one. At times this was expressed in terms that became axioms of his paper. Never say that a man refused to be interviewed as if he were an evasive criminal in the dock; he had a right to refuse, "was one. 'Don't ever drag in the family of a man who has gone wrong; they are suffering enough through no fault of their own,' was another. 'When you make a caricature of a public man, make one that even his wife can laugh at,' was another."

Before taking over the management of the Globe, General Taylor had founded a magazine called the American Homes and became a pioneer in the 10 cent magazine field. The venture gave every assurance of success, but the plant was destroyed by the great Boston fire of 1872, and General Taylor was left virtually without funds.

Reviewing his battle to put the Globe on its feet financially and in public estimation, he said: "My aim has been to make the Globe a cheerful, attractive and useful newspaper that would enter the home as a kindly, helpful friend of the family."

It was a week ago Monday evening while taking his customary walk along Commonwealth avenue with one of his sons, that General Taylor suffered a slight shock, which came as the first warning of his approaching end.

Although confined to bed, he insisted the next day and even through last Friday, upon directing details of articles which he wished to have appear in the Globe.

But, except for successive rallies, he gradually weakened. His children and grandchildren came to his home and there, at 10 o'clock this morning, he died peacefully.

General Taylor is survived by three sons, Charles H. Taylor, Jr., manager of the Boston Globe; William O. Taylor, business manager of the Globe; and John I. Taylor, former president of the Boston American League Baseball club, and now interested in real estate. Two daughters also survive, Mrs. Horace D. Pillsbury of San Francisco and Mrs. Matthew C. Armstrong of Hampton, Va.

Francis R. Jones is the new director general of the United States Employment service. He succeeds John B. Denmore.

HOW TO PACK A PICNIC BASKET

By SISTER MARY
Use plenty of oiler paper to wrap sandwiches and cakes when packing your picnic luncheon and pack snugly so things won't shake.

Wrap every ten or dozen sandwiches in oiler paper and then in an old napkin. Then wrap in ordinary wrapping paper. Sandwiches packed in this fashion will be just as fresh when opened after several hours as if put up in a regular sandwich box.

Hard boiled eggs should be shelled and wrapped in oiler paper. Each piece of cake could be wrapped separately and then all the pieces wrapped again in oiler paper before putting in a box or wrapping in a napkin. When it comes to packing the basket, fill up any empty corners or cracks with crumpled paper. And as to sandwiches themselves, each half of the bread should be lightly buttered. This prevents the bread from absorbing the filling.

Use any kind of cold meat. Trim off very carefully any gristle or fat and put through the food chopper. Moisten with tomato ketchup. Taste and add more salt if necessary. Cold beef is especially good. Put between slices of white bread and butter.

Mock Chicken Sandwiches
One cup cold roast pork, 1/4 cup diced celery, 1 teaspoonful minced parsley, mayonnaise dressing.

The meat may be cut in slivers or put through the food chopper. If chopped, add celery and parsley and mix smooth with mayonnaise. Put between slices of white bread and butter.

Pork Sandwiches
Put cold roast pork or chop through the food chopper. Mix with chopped mixed pickle or chopped sweet pickles and put between slices of white bread and butter. If mixed pickle is used, be careful that the mixture is not too moist.

Raisin Sandwiches
One-half cup chopped raisins, 1/4 cup chopped nuts, 1 package cream cheese, 1/4 teaspoon salt, few gratings nutmeg, 1 tablespoon cream.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly and put between slices of brown bread and butter.

Combination Sandwiches
One-fourth cup butter, 1/4 cup cottage cheese, 2 pimientos, 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Beat butter to a cream and slowly add cheese and pimientos chopped. Spread between slices of white and brown bread.

Brain Bread Sandwiches
York state full cream cheese, 2 pimientos, salt, cream to make moist.

Put 1/2 round cheese through a ricer or work smoothly with a fork in a bowl. Add chopped pimientos and cream gradually. Put between slices of brain bread and butter.

Onion Sandwiches
Peel and slice onion. Let stand in cold salted water half an hour. Drain and chop. Season with salt and pepper and a very little vinegar. Put between slices of whole wheat bread and butter.

Hard Boiled Egg Sandwiches
Separate yolks and whites of hard boiled eggs and chop each separately. Add 1 chopped green pepper for every four eggs. Mix with mayonnaise to moisten and put between slices of white bread and butter.

Ham and Egg Sandwiches
One-half cup finely chopped cold boiled ham, 1 hard boiled egg, mayonnaise to moisten.

Mix ham and chopped egg with enough mayonnaise to make moist. Put between slices of white bread and butter.

WHEN?

The Lover Query

by Berton Braley

There's many a question of the day
That gives us something to fret about,
Like "When is Germany going to pay?"
And, "How are the Bolsheviks coming out?"
"Who will the pennant winners be?"
"Will Dempsey cling to the fighting crown?"
But the only question that bothers me
Is, "When are you coming back to town?"
The Polish question perplexes some,
The Einstein theory's harder still,
The labor question still makes us glum,
The Japanese problem has a thrill.

But the only question that I debate,
The only thought that is in my ken,
Is, "Dear, I'm lonely, why must I wait?"
"When are you coming back again?"
Still, still the city is all awirl
With floods of people; yet, to my sight,
Without the presence of one small girl,
The place is empty, deserted quite.
There's nothing I seem to want to do,
I gaze at life with a sullen frown;
And all I think of the whole day through
Is "When are you coming back to town?"

Legion Carnival Program a Screamer—Golden Opportunity for Ex-Service Men

Two hundred and forty ex-service men can have jobs during the Fourth of July season merely by applying for them! And it is promised by Francis J. Roane, who offers these positions, that an unparalleled opportunity to make money will be afforded. The occasion will be the American Legion's carnival on the South common, the biggest enterprise ever attempted in this section of the United States, according to the figures. "I estimate that 200,000 people will visit this affair, from all parts of New England and even further away," declared Mr. Roane today. "Already I have given jobs to 60 war veterans, and there are propositions with unequalled chances for money-making open and waiting for 240 more. They can't help collect big money. Two years ago, I myself sold 11,000 bottles of near-beer on the South common in one day, and that was nothing to what will be done on this occasion. During yesterday and

"I predict," continued Manager Roane, "that there won't be enough help in Lowell to handle the crowds. I have received communications from cities in many states, asking where hotel rooms can be secured. Hundreds of auto parties will be here. Arrangements have been made, says Roane, for parking spaces near the common where cars will be absolutely safe. Merchandise to the value of $25,000 has been bought for sale during the carnival. An advance man is on his way through Vermont, in which state he will proceed as far as White River Junction, and back through Haverhill and other Massachusetts cities. A vast number of posters will be put in place. Auto posters, for the backs of cars, have also arrived at the carnival headquarters, and those interested in assisting the service men's enterprise may obtain these at the headquarters.

The festivities will start with a bang on the evening of the Friday preceding Independence Day, when a parade will be held, and Mayor Perry D. Thompson will touch a key lighting the thousands of electric lamps which will illuminate the grounds. A balloon with fireworks will then ascend. Four days, afternoon and evening, there will be incredible stunts by Twombly's flying circus, including a leap from one plane to another, a loop the loop while standing on the wing of a plane, and a parachute drop from the wing of one of the airplanes.

MATRIMONIAL

Miller—Orlovitz
Mr. Gerson Miller of Boston and Miss Bertha Orlovitz of this city, were married June 19 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Harry Fox, 12 Starbird street, Malden, the ceremony being performed by Rabbi J. BITTEN BY DOG barrier signs will all have been removed, the last workman will have gathered up his tools and departed, and the city will be able to show to citizens a creditable piece of highway which it is expected will keep in good condition for at least five years. It has taken the street department about six weeks to complete the job.

Carl Pratt, aged 64, living at 275 Appleton street, was bitten on the left cheek and left ear this morning by an airedale dog, said to be owned by a John Frain of Rock street. It was reported to the board of health this morning. Dr. Walter A. Sherman, animal inspector, was notified.

State Work Unfinished

There is one fly, however, in the ointment of satisfaction of autoists traveling between Lowell and Lawrence over the newly constructed thoroughfare. The street has only been put in good shape as far as the city's boundary line. Beyond this is a stretch of road connecting with the state boulevard that is still in unsatisfactory condition. The highway de-

The city's work on the street comprised $400 square yards of bituminous macadam.

Today some of the men who had been employed on the First street job were transferred to work on Third street. They are getting ready to lay about 5000 square yards of asphalt macadam. It is expected that about three weeks will be required to finish the job.

Making a Record

The work on First street is only one of the jobs which City Engineer Stephen Kearney has set out to push to completion since he took charge of the street and water and fire department commissioners' offices. He is hitting the high spots in his progress toward making a record as a working city official which is causing old-timers around the hall to sit up and take notice.

After years of talking about having repair gangs put at work patching the street, the city engineer now has four such gangs with upwards of 50 men at work. They are engaged in

WHY DOES SHE LOOK SO OLD?

This question has been asked about many a woman under thirty, who has married and taken upon herself the care of a house and young children. When a woman is suffering from female weakness, bearing down pains, head and back ache and nervous irritation, it is well nigh impossible to attend to her duties and retain the charm and freshness of youth. Must she then struggle on toward the inevitable nervous breakdown or premature old age? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from such a fate. moving about over the city and making repairs wherever they are most needed. These gangs are taking out flagstone crossings, filling up holes, laying short stretches of macadam and leveling-up block paving. Today one gang is at work on the job of taking out all of the flagstone crossings in Fairmount and Wyman streets.

On Thorndike Street

Work is going forward with a hustle on Thorndike street, where 10,000 square yards of graded granite block paving on a concrete base are being laid. City Engineer Kearney states that this piece of pavement will be in condition for wheels to begin turning over it again August 1. These are a part of the jobs that started the city engineer peeling off his coat and preparing for action as soon as he reached his office today.

In addition to his street department activities the engineer is looking after the laying of a 12-inch water main in

Wentworth avenue from Fairmount street to Holyrood avenue. This new pipe will add largely to the supply of water and the pressure in the section served by it.

The engineer has had an all compressor set up on the site of the bridge on Market street over the canal. This will furnish the pressure to blow cement in connection with the rebuilding of the bridge.

Next Saturday afternoon and Sunday, when the water is drawn from the canal, the old abutments of the bridge will be thoroughly cleaned and given a coat of cement. As soon as this cement has set, the work of building the reinforced concrete bridge will start. It is announced that it is expected that the work will be completed in about six weeks.

BEE STINGS VERSUS STINGS OF RHEUMATISM

GEORGE RENNER BEING STUNG

That rheumatism can be cured by the sting of the honey-bee, is the firm belief of George Renner, of Cincinnati, who is taking this novel treatment to eradicate the disease from his system.

Each Wednesday and Sunday Renner visits the apiary of Fred Muth and submits to being stung by the honey-bees.

At first, when Renner could just hobble along with the aid of crutches, he bared his arm to as high as ten stings.

Now Renner can walk without the aid of a cane and gets stung only twice a week.

"At first the stings of the bees were very painful to me," says Renner,

"and the swelling resulting from the stings were great, but as my system gradually became inoculated the pain and swellings grew less and the pain and swelling of the rheumatism grew less in proportion. I can now take the stings with very little pain at all."

Bee-master Muth explains the cure this way: "It is a well known fact that the sting of the honey-bee is made painful by the formic acid which enters the wound when the bee stings."

"Some physicians contend that formic acid counteracts rheumatism."

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

No Importance Attached to Slight Settlement in Pier—Expense Negligible

There has been a very slight settlement, less than 1/4 of an inch, in one of the piers on the river side of the new Memorial Auditorium in East Merrimack street. The settlement has occurred in an area where the soil is particularly soft.

Major Gow of the Charles R. Gow Construction Co. has been called in by the auditorium building commission to carry the piers in this area down to hard pan and to put in three or four new underpinning piers.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatre's Own Press Agents

THE STRAND

Today's offering will be H. B. Warner's picture of Nat Goodwin's great stage success, "When We Were Twenty-one," and the other feature, which by the way is to be shown for the last time this afternoon and tonight. If you haven't seen these super-specials, then you want to today.

For the last three days of the week, starting with matinee on Thursday, the program will consist of Viola Dana's latest picture romance, "Home Sweet Home," and Pearl White in "Know Your Men." Both are exceptional photoplays. Miss Dana has the stellar role of Madge Joy, leading lady of a cheap, barnstorming company in "Home Sweet Home." She finds a haven in a quiet, simple farmstead, after being ousted from the company, and her place taken by an inexperienced girl whose admirer is willing to back the impoverished show. Then the company of actors come to the farm, bringing with them the girl, a runaway from the very home Madge has entered. The working out of the plot is really splendid. "Know Your Men" is a picture that affords her opportunity for new phase of her exceptional ability, particularly her strong emotional acting. And don't forget that the Strand is the "coolest spot in town," and that there are 1000 seats being sold at 12 cents each.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK

Hot, isn't it? Yes, in the city, the mercury runs high, and sweltering conditions prevail. But out at Lakeview cooling breezes from gleaming Mascopie's waters always bring relief to human humanity, and thousands daily make Lakeview their goal. Cars run every few minutes, so there is little crowding. And on arrival a wide variety of amusement is available, including free vaudeville. Minner Doyle's famous orchestra plays afternoon and evening for dancing in the great hall.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performances of "White and Unmarried," starring Thomas Melghan will be given at the Merrimack Square theatre this evening. Tomorrow afternoon there will be an entire change of program.

The features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "The Wild Goose," a stirring dramatic production dealing with the divorce evil, and "One Minute," a lighter story, with popular Douglas MacLean in the leading role.

"The Wild Goose" is a production of

The photoplay gets its name from the legend that a wild goose is always faithful to its mate even after death parts them. Frank Manners is a sincere young artist. His wife, Diana Manners, becomes fascinated by Ogden Penn, who induces her to go away with him and take her child with her despite the anguish of her husband and the protests of their best friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings.

Manners is so heart-broken because of his wife's desertion that he wants to kill Penn. He is prevented from doing so by Mrs. Hastings, who gives him a sleeping draught. She confesses to her husband that she has always loved Manners, but that she has never allowed that love to manifest itself. Her husband, heartbroken by his wife's confession and sorry for Manners, goes in his automobile where Mrs. Manners, Ogden and the child are living. He threatens to shoot Ogden unless he gives up Mrs. Manners.

From this point on the plot becomes absorbingly interesting and the denouement is one that will give the spectator a happy surprise.

In "One Every Minute," Douglas MacLean plays the role of a young man who invents a patent medicine, guaranteed to cure man or beast. There's a lot of fun, mystery and adventure in the production and MacLean has seldom been seen in a better role. A comedy and the International News will round out the bill.

Watertown Host to Freddie Wright

WATERTOWN, June 22.—All Watertown planned to be host to Freddie Wright, Jr., of Albemarle, upon his return home today from England. Elated over his success in advancing farther than any other American golfer in the recent British amateur championship, the local post of the American Legion and its band arranged to escort the youthful state champion to his home. Presentation of a gift was on the program and the town government voted to give him a reception. A dinner by his clubmates of the Belmont Spring Country club was also arranged.

Found Bound, Gagged and Unconscious

BRUNSWICK, Me., June 22.—Booker Douglass, a barber, was found bound, gagged and unconscious, beside the state highway near his home at Bowdoinham, late last night. When he was revived several hours later, he said he had been struck on the head by occupants of an automobile bearing a Massachusetts license plate, robbed of $2000 in Liberty bonds, $700 in money and valuable papers. Police of surrounding towns were searching for the car, believed to have contained three persons, one of whom inquired the way to Lisbon Falls, a few miles from here. Douglass is about 60 years of age. He was not seriously injured.

DIST. ATTY. TUFTS SAYS HIS DAY IS COMING

BOSTON, June 22.—Dist. Atty. Nathan A. Tufts, last night, issued the following statement in regard to Atty. Gen. Allen's bill of specifications made public yesterday:

"Months ago the attorney general made charges against me to the legislature. Twenty-four days ago he made charges against me in court. Ever since then I have been trying to find out what he charges me with, but even now that he has filed some specifications he still requests that he may reserve the right to file specifications later in spite of the court's order that he should file them.

Asks If Public Thinks It Fair

"I wonder if the public thinks it is fair play for a man to use the prestige and authority of a great office to charge me in the legislature, in court, and in the newspapers with things for which, if I am guilty, I ought to be excluded from the society of decent men, when he doesn't know yet what he means by the charges.

"I wish my counsel would let me talk about the specifications that have been filed. But my day is coming. Just let me have time enough to look up some of the cases to which he refers and to get the names of necessary witnesses together and I am ready to meet my accusers where they, in the sporting parlance of the day, will have 'to put up or shut up.'

"Some of the matters specified are so trivial that they would not be heard at all unless shouted through a megaphone. But exaggeration and noise does not make me glibly.

"Some of the matters specified are absurd."

The Bigelow Case

"While I cannot discuss the facts to be heard in court, yet it does not seem improper for me to let the public have an instance to illustrate what I mean. In paragraph 6 of the latest emanation from Special Assistant Attorney General Hurlburt, he brings up the Bigelow case. On the public records of the perior court will be found a case where Daniel H. Coakley brought suit against Bigelow to collect on a note claimed to have been given for attorney's fees rendered by Mr. Coakley to Mr. Bigelow. In that case Mr. Coakley's attorney of record is the present Special Assistant District Attorney Henry P. Hurlburt. Let some of the reporters ask Mr. Hurlburt if he wanted me to bring forward a secret indictment against Mr. Bigelow, voted by a grand jury long before I became district attorney, as a lover to help him collect Coakley's note against Bigelow.

"Perhaps it is not wise for me even to say as much as this, but when a man is being bullied and battered and his reputation smeared, and he is forced to public confession and ridicule, can you blame him if the limits of human endurance have been reached?"

Efforts to reach Mr. Hurlburt last night to give his man opportunity to answer Mr. Tufts' statement were unavailing.

SAYS PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS SAVE STATE $10,000,000

WORCESTER, June 22.—That the Catholic parochial schools of Massachusetts saved the taxpayers of the state about $10,000,000 during 1920 was a statement made yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. James J. Farrell, rector of Ascension church. In an address to the joint graduation exercises of the Ascension and St. John's parochial schools, in St. John's parish hall, he said:

"These schools are the result of our conscientious convictions that they are a necessity in our day to preserve the faith of our children. And, for the sake of conscience, Catholic people are making tremendous sacrifices. Just think of it. Last year there were 122,772 children under Catholic training in the state of Massachusetts—1632 in Worcester alone.

"If we take the average cost to the state for 1920 of each pupil in the elementary public schools—$60 per pupil—we can readily figure it out that we saved the state about $7,363,232. money the state would have been obliged to expend for the education of the 122,772 boys and girls who are educated in our parochial schools without costing the state of Massachusetts a cent.

"And if we consider the saving to the state on the investments made in educating these 122,772 pupils, we shall see that it amounts to more than $100,000,000.

"We make this sacrifice, I say, for the sake of conscience, and if it cost us more even, we would be willing to make the sacrifice to educate our children truly and to bring them up to love God, and consequently to be better men and women and better citizens."

Prior to the resting of the prosecution, two of four shotgun shells found on Vanzetti at the time of his arrest three weeks after the murders were placed in evidence. It was agreed by defense and prosecution that the two others would not be submitted because they were not in the condition in which they were found, through no fault on either side. Defense counsel agreed to make no argument in the fact that the state had not produced in court a repeating rifle which was found at the house of Sacco the day after his arrest. The jury was instructed to disregard consideration of the weapon in connection with the case.

TO FORM ORGANIZATION

Meeting of Centralville Residents Called for Purpose of Forming an Improvement Association

If plans that are being formulated are carried out Centralville will soon have an improvement association of its own. A meeting of the leading residents of that district has been called for Thursday evening, June 30, at the Centralville M. E. church for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming an association, the aim of which will be the improvement of that section of the city.

The residents of Centralville have been complaining for some time that their district has been neglected by the city fathers and they feel it is high time for them to organize and protect against conditions that are now existing in the district, including the streets which they claim, are, in some places dangerous to travel.

Invitations have been sent out to the leading residents of the district by Rev. Carl L. Meister, pastor of the Centralville M. E. church to attend the meeting which will be held at 8 o'clock and it is hoped all who have been invited will attend. The matter of forming a permanent organization will be discussed and if it is the sentiment of the assembly officers will be elected and an improvement campaign will be launched.

PEASANT'S BODICE IN FAVOR

COALGRAM No. 12

Monday's Boston News Bureau carried the following news special:

"Letter sent by Chairman Clark of Interstate Commerce Commission to a western coal association stated there would be no immediate reduction in coal freight rates, which caused sensation, being first official intimation that no action had been taken to reduce coal freight rates, as buyers and public had been led to believe."

This company has held to the belief right along that there would be no reduction in rates this year and has advised and still advises its customers to put in coal now.

We have all the best grades and sizes. July first will see another advance in prices at the mines which we must take into consideration.

THE STREET PLAYGROUNDS

Last summer an interesting experiment was tried in this city. Two streets were set aside during the early evening hours for children to play in. These streets were in parts of the city in which there are many youngsters. They are normally exposed to many dangers. In the highways, into which it is impossible to prevent their straying, as a result of passing autos whose drivers, be they ever so careful, are not always able to guard against accidents. As a consequence of the closing of the two streets a large number of children were afforded an opportunity for healthful play under competent supervision and there was not a single auto accident in the neighborhood. In all, over 10,000 children were registered as using the street playgrounds during the summer.

The plan for closing the streets for play purposes originated with former President William N. Goodell of the chamber of commerce, and came to be widely known and commented upon in different parts of the country as the Lowell plan. It was in number of cities. It is gratifying to learn that a start is to be made toward providing the city with similar play spaces this year. It is unfortunate that at the present time the outlook is, that there will be only two such places. These of course cannot adequately meet the needs of more than a very small portion of the children of Lowell.

The chamber of commerce has announced that it is willing to finance the maintenance of other street playgrounds if persons will come forward and suggest proper places for their location and give some assurance that there will be no objection on the part of people in the immediate neighborhoods to their opening.

There should be a number of streets in the thickly populated parts of the city where the people who reside there will follow the example of the people of Charles street and for the sake of protecting the youngsters from possible accident and giving them healthful recreation, be willing to put up with the youthful exuberance of spirit and some very natural noise which to some would be as music to their ears.

PRESIDENT LOWELL'S COURSE

The baccalaureate address of President Lowell of Harvard presents some ideas worthy of serious thought although neither new nor original. When a great man in high station such as President Lowell, sets away from first principles and sometimes away from the principles of the American Declaration of Independence, it is refreshing to find them getting back and enunciating old principles as if they were entirely new. Here is a sentiment from President Lowell that may be so classified:

"Let us take the principle of patriotism, the desire to promote by all possible means the prosperity of the country, the nation, the people to which one belongs. Few men are ready to deny the validity, the importance, the inviolable moral obligation of that principle. Are there any limitations to the principle of patriotism? Is it dishonorable, for example, is the breaking of solemn treaties, is ruthlessness inhumanity to a weaker neighbor, justified by a belief that it will conduce to the prosperity of one's own people? Is a nation under any moral obligation to abstain from acts against other nations, which if committed by a private individual would make him an object of general abhorrence, and perhaps bring him to the gallows? Treaties proclaimed the doctrine that there can be no moral obligation superior to the national interest, and many Germans adopted his ideas in whole or in part. Is this conception of the state, or something akin to it, had not been prevalent in Germany it would not have been possible for any man, however close to the source of authority, to have led Germany into the war."

"All that is contained in that statement is simply that nations as well as individuals are subject to the moral law or, to put it plainly, the laws of God. It implies that nations are amenable where justice prevails, for acts of aggression or tyranny committed against weaker nations, Germany thought she could conquer the world; but she cast to the winds all considerations of moral responsibility and she lost. Other nations are equally bound and the moral law is no less binding on the powerful nation than on the weak and defenceless. What the world needs is some agency to bring great nations to a sense of their moral responsibility for violating the rights of small nations. Although it was supposed that the late war would be succeeded by a reign of international justice, the rule of might is still the fixed policy of great nations."

NOT A COURT OF JUSTICE

The final step in establishing a "court of international justice" will be taken at the meeting of the assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in September.

This is the most important item on the program of the assembly meeting. As practically all of the nations, members of the league, have ratified the draft plan of the court, the ratification by the assembly, which is necessary to make the court a going concern, is more or less a formality.

American members of the Hague tribunal have been asked to name four judges, of whom two will be American, to be presented as candidates for selection as presiding judges of the international court. The fact that American judges may be chosen will not link the United States with the League of Nations, as might be supposed.

The court has no power to enforce justice among the nations or to hear charges of any nation against another. It will be of little use, as it will not in reality be a court of international justice except so far as the great powers allow it to function.

If the oppressed peoples of the earth could bring their cases before this court for a finding in international justice, then the court would be worthy of its name. Its aim, however, is to

DISARMAMENT DANGEROUS

In various utterances recently, and last of all at the commencement exercises of Tufts college, Secretary of War John W. Weeks entered his protest against the movement for disarmament so far as it applies to the United States. He would be glad to see the dawn of universal peace, but while other nations are making active preparations for war, he does not see the wisdom of having the United States disarm.

The war department has information relative to the preparations being made by other powers that stand as a menace to the United States and it is, therefore, unsafe and ill-advised to have this nation undertake any independent scheme of disarmament. Already steps have been taken to cut down the army which will reach the low level of 150,000 next year; but when it comes to curtailing the navy or limiting the naval defenses, the security of the nation forbids any such step.

Secretary Weeks knows whereof he speaks and his advice should be heeded when he says that the United States should not consider any movement contemplating independent action on the question of disarmament. If other great powers took similar steps the case would be different; but the allies are still at war and their military and naval forces are still being kept on a war basis, and are in some instances being supplemented by vast airplane forces, a department in which the United States is particularly weak. In case of emergency, we could raise a large army in a short time; but it would be impossible to build battleships or aircraft in a few months or even in a year. In these matters our policy must be regulated by the attitude of other nations.

MORMON ACTIVITY

To those who have not been familiar with Mormon methods of propagating their doctrine, it will be rather astounding to find that this sect led 25,000 people away from the Christian churches in this country last year. The address of Mrs. Lulu Shepard in this city the other night showing the activities of the Mormons all over this country should cause the people of Lowell at least to guard against the activity of Mormon agents hereabouts.

Strange as it may appear, there is no law forbidding polygamy in the United States, although there is a law which says that polygamy shall not be allowed in any territory of the United States. Congressman Gillett has introduced a bill in congress, the purpose of which is to prohibit the practice of polygamy throughout the nation. It has been proposed that this prohibition should be embodied in a constitutional amendment and if such a provision would assist in suppressing the practice, it should be promptly adopted.

It is charged that the canvassers for Mormon converts obtain access to the homes as canvassers for magazines, and where they get the chance, they introduce the real business of their mission. In Mormonism only the high priests are allowed a plurality of wives, and to become a high priest, a man has but to convert a certain number of people. With 25,000 high priests in the country, it can be readily seen that the canvassers have been successful in getting women to accept their doctrines.

GOMPERS AND LEWIS

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has a rival in the person of John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, who is a candidate for president. Mr. Gompers says the position is so exalted and dignified, he would not stoop to politics to attain it. But that he will play the game to the limit is just as certain as that he has no played it in the past. Of late, Mr. Gompers has been more of a "me too" to the aggressive leaders than the guiding hand he used to be. The organization needs a change, but whether Lewis is the man for the place is not at all certain. If Gompers is re-elected it will be because the organization has not a suitable man in sight to take his place.

SETTLE THE STRIKES

This is no time for a strike among the building trades. The plumbers should settle their differences and get to work. The carpenters showed good sense in voluntarily announcing cut of their own wages early in the season in order to help getting some building activity started up. Now, with the season well advanced, the plumbers balk. Suppose the question were left to an arbitration board consisting of three of the strikers; that judicial body after hearing the facts on both sides be able in fairness to give a decision in favor of their own craft? Just think this over.

It was expected that the council would read the chamber of commerce petition to the voters. The die is now cast for a special election on the question of having permanent street and reconstruction work done by contract. It is an important question that must be passed upon at some date within the first ten days of August.

Will any of the youngsters of the present day grow up to think of the municipal bathroom with the fondness of some of their elders when memory reverts to the "old swimming hole" of boyhood?

"Did you ever hear of a bird eating half a pound of raw meat at each meal?" asks The Sun reporter. Thank goodness no, and we hope to escape such an experience until the meat trust revises its price schedules.

Now we should like to know how many people are likely to force their vacations to vote for or against the initiative proposition that street work in Lowell shall be done by contractors.

The girls' vocational school graduates should and their school in the noblest vocation of all—that of home-making.

SEEN AND HEARD

All good roads lead to prosperity.

Prohibition makes more grapes into Peace, like good wine, improves with age.

Auto accidents are becoming incidents.

Even the sea shore is dry. No sea serpents this year.

Flat pocketbooks are sometimes caused by fat-heads.

The first ingredients of the melting pot are soap and water.

When she quit calling it "finger" the honeymoon is over.

For some, short dresses are proper; for most they show bad form.

Father is glad he has finished working his son's way through college.

The average man will have to win a fight at home before he can go to Jersey City.

Some tired business men send their wives away for the summer. Others stay tired.

For Sale: One combination garment that may be worn as either a pair of stockings or a hair net.

The girl next door says it's not so much a question of what to wear as a question of what to leave off.

Chicago precept Tom tells judges they should pull their shades down; in other words, he blames the "freedom of the press."

It isn't true.

Almost any rich man will tell you that the poor are the happiest.

Writers, lecturers, philosophers also delight in saying so. Even Mr. Stillman, fighting for much alimony in the New York courts, says "money is a bore." The saying doesn't harm the rich and is designed to console the poor. There's only one trouble with it—it isn't true.

Naaming the Piano

Charles Deutschmann, president of the association of piano tuners, now meeting in Chicago, says a piano is not merely a piece of furniture. It is a member of the household, and should be regarded as a person, and given a name, as it has "personality, grouches, likes and dislikes." Also the piano has neighbors. They have grouches and dislikes. Also they have names for the piano, but the names cannot, with propriety, be published.

Mr's Busy Day

The school vacation season is at hand when all of our little worries will be with her every hour for three months. For nine months she has shared with the teacher the job of bringing up her brood. Now the job is all hers. Everybody plays but ma. Vacation season is her work-time. Then one day she makes up her mind to have an outing. She's up at 6, and after much travail she fares forth—with all her little worries trailing after her. She would be unhappy without them.

Progress

Four boys who broke into a freight car were arraigned before Judge Petteway of juvenile court at Tampa, Fla. He ordered each to earn enough money to buy a jack-knife and present it to some boy at the Children's home. How to punish children who break laws has been a problem. This seems a good way to make a punishment understood. Certainly it is better than locking a boy up in the company of other youthful offenders, and better than imposing a fine to be paid by a boy's parents.

Main Street Folks

A little personality is worth a thing or two.

And Main street folks are finding this to be a factor true.

Their mode of life and manner new reveals so much attention.

That noisy humdrum city folks seem scarcely worth the mention.

Distinctive characteristics, tho' the life is so broad.

Don't seem to be conspicuous 'mongst the city folks today.

But Main street folks are different. With a spirit so unhampered.

That needy authors now proceed to write them ungarbled.

In stories and in movies, and in every other story.

By which they hope to win some fame and needed cash the while.

There's Sinclair Lewis and Zona Gale and others who owe thanks.

To Main street folks for fortunes lately piled within their banks.

'Tis but a gag, a story, these Main street folks have done.

This furnishing material for authors to make man;

For charity and sympathy and friend-ship and love and aid.

Are traits which Main street people have and give, tho' unrepaid;

And further yet, they arrive to help those struggling and in need.

They buy their books and see their plays and read their stalo, trille jokes.

A noble service, truly, with a moral very plain—

And that, at least, is something which these authors would not find their selling rough.

If Main street folks should boycott all their books and plays and stuff,

—Ruth Rolande Shaw in St. Louis Post Dispatch.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Four young men sat on a bench on the South common. They had secured a bottle of booze, but being prudently cautious, they did not take the risk of each taking a drink, not knowing whether the consequences would be a loss of sight or even of life. How were they to find whether the stuff was deadly or dangerous? Kind some thirsty individual and give him a drink from the bottle, suggested one of the four. "Here comes Doc," let's give him a drink and see how it works." "Hello, Doc," Will, how are you? You have been such a stranger! Where have you kept yourself? Come and have a drink!" Doc accepted the invitation and was held under observation for half an hour, during which he showed signs of developing an ordinary jaw. Then the first of the quartette took a swig from the bottle, then the next and so on to the last. "And it's my turn now," said "Doc." "Not on your life!" said one of the quartette. "You are showing signs of being over the hay alcohol. Another drink would put you to sleep." They had tried the booze on the dog before risking it themselves. How many poor deluded souls are used as the hench "dog" just as "Doc" was on the South common?

HARBOR ELECTION PRESIDENT

Herbert W. Jordan was elected president of the local farmers' union at a meeting of the organization last evening to complete the unexpired term of John B. Curran, who has resigned. George Holand was elected vice president to succeed Mr. Jordan. Both officers will serve until December when a new election will be held.

A FINE COMPLEXION

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter to concern her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pailor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Parents should be watchful of their daughters' complexions, and should see to it that these danger signs are corrected, not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. Every girl should read the chapter on "Chlorosis" in the free booklet "Building Up the Blood." It tells just what to do and gives directions regarding diet, exercise and rest.

The girl with a muddy complexion should have the booklet "A Dainty Laxative," which tells about Pinkettes. These books will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be mailed direct on receipt of price, sixty cents a box—Adv.

WOMEN TO HELP CAUSE OF DEMOCRACY

Democracy will be doomed and women urged to align themselves with the party at an "organization tea" in the Colonial Shop next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The tea will be under the direction of the Lowell Women's Democratic Club. At a meeting of the club last night plans for the event were made. Reports of committees were heard, and matters connected with the activities of the club during the summer and autumn considered.

At the tea Saturday, Mrs. Susan W. Fitz Gerald of Boston and Miss Gertrude F. Hayes, vice-chairman of the democratic state committee, will be the principal speakers.

The officers of the club are: President, Katherine F. McCarthy; vice-president, Winifred C. Haggey; treasurer, Mrs. Edward M. Murphy; secretary, Mrs. Thomas H. Lawler; board of directors, Rose A. Dowd, Mrs. George A. Teague, Emma Young, Staughton, M.D., Mrs. Anastasia M. Rourke, M.D., Mrs. Lang, Mrs. Mollie M. Bagley, Mrs. Margaret T. Ryan and Mariello King.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DIPLOMAS AWARDED

Five young men of the boys' department of the Lowell Vocational school have been awarded diplomas for completing their prescribed courses of studies. No formal graduation exercises are held at the boys' Vocational school. Osborne Smith, Irene Lovanger and Clayton Reed have completed their carpentry courses and have received their diplomas, while Milton McGrath has been awarded a diploma in the electrical course and Raymond Spence in the auto repairing course.

MANY OUTINGS BOOKED FOR WILLOW DALE

Willow Dale, one of Lowell's oldest picnic grounds, will be the scene of many outings this summer, judging from the number of organizations which have signified their intention of meeting there. Tomorrow the Highland Congregational church will hold its annual outing there and on Saturday the joint outing of the Worthen Street Baptist and Highland Methodist churches will be held. The Swedish Lutheran church will hold a picnic there July 9 and on July 15 the Day State mill will gather for their annual get-together. On Sept. 22 the Lowell Fish and Game association will hold its outing on the old grounds and many other organizations will gather there on other dates during the summer season.

MILLINERY AND DRESSMAKING EXHIBIT

An interesting exhibition of millinery and dressmaking of pupils of the continuation school is now on view in the high school annex and is a most creditable showing of the work done by the girls of the school since the opening of the fall term. Some of the girls knew practically nothing about sewing when they entered the school but now are able to display articles indicative of high skill. When it is considered that each girl has spent only four hours a week at the school, their achievements are all the more remarkable. These four hours have

NEW BEDFORD, June 22.—The American Federation of Textile Operatives opened its sixth annual convention here today with approximately 100 delegates in attendance from the Maine, Connecticut and Pennsylvania, representing a membership of 25,000 workers on the textile industry.

Mayor Charles S. Ashley welcomed the delegates to the city at the opening session, which was devoted principally to organization, the reports of the president, secretary and treasurer, and the naming of the standing committees.

This afternoon the out-of-town delegates were the guests of New Bedford organizations at the circus. Tomorrow afternoon will be spent in sightseeing, and on Friday afternoon there will be a clam bake at Fort Phoenix in Fairhaven. James Tanney of Fall River, president of the convention, is presiding at the convention which will continue through until Saturday, when the election of officers will be held.

TO FIX JITNEY ROND

The city officials of Woburn and the selectmen of Billerica and Burlington will soon hold a joint conference to discuss the street railway situation on the Woburn line and to fix the amount of the bond to be furnished by the Woburn-Reading bus line, which is now operating through the town into Woburn. The officials may agree to call for a joint bond of $10,000 to cover the three districts.

WANNA MOVE TO L. I.

FLUSHING, L. I., June 22.—There's a big real estate boom on here. The real estate agent has bought a new house in a secret chamber in the cellar has found $5 bottles of real "hooch." All bonded stuff, too.

DEADLOCK OVER NAVAL BILL BROKEN

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The deadlock between the senate and house over the naval appropriation bill was broken yesterday by the conference with a virtual agreement to top off about $20,000,000 of the $28,000,000 added to the bill by the senate and with the right of the house to vote directly on the Borah disarmament amendment.

There are still many minor tangles to be cleared away, but the conference was reported in substantial agreement on all major points.

According to the plan as worked out yesterday, the navy personnel, including naval aviation, will stand somewhere between 100,000 and 120,000, house members holding out for the smaller total.

Many republicans were plainly surprised last night, when they found that the Borah amendment, as passed by the senate, would come back to the house. Reports that house leaders would insist upon the Porter disarmament resolution, concerning the declared purpose of President Harding, to call an international conference on armaments, as a substitute for the Borah proposal for a naval disarmament conference between Great Britain, Japan and the United States, were met with the statement that the house members of the conference would not take part in such a course.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, June 22.—Further recoveries from the recent depression were made by many popular shares at the opening of today's stock market. Oil, equipments, motors and rails were the sustaining features. General Asphalt, Harvester, Studebaker, Reading and Sumatra Tobacco scored early advances of one or almost two points. Canadian Pacific, Great Northern, Rock Island, Erie, International Paper, Industrial Alcohol, United States Steel and Baldwin locomotives also were firm and strong.

Shorts were severely punished in the broader and more comprehensive advance of the morning. Mexican Petroleum was the feature, rising almost 7 or 12 points over its recent low. General Asphalt, common and preferred, Pan-American Petroleum and Houston Oil rose 3/4 to 6 points. Steels, equipments, motors, rubber, leather and food shares gained 2 to 4. Chemicals and fertilizers also rose sharply. Virginia-Carolina Chemical advancing six points. Rails were active at gains of 1 to 2 points. Sears, Roebuck, at a loss of almost 3 points was the only conspicuous laggard. Call money opened at 5 per cent.

The feature of the mid-session was Chicago Pneumatic 60-day bill which sustained an extreme loss of 3 points on the reduced dividend. Sears, Roebuck extended its loss to 4 points. Selling for profits cut into early gains. Mexican Petroleum reacting 2 1/2 points.

The market experienced a violent reaction in its final hour. Fresh liquidation mainly in steels, copper and mining shares, sent the closing of 2 to 7 points. The close was heavy.

Lincoln Grammar School Baseball

Team One of City's Fastest Amateur Nines

LINCOLN SCHOOL 1921 BASEBALL SQUAD

For the first time in its history the Lincoln school this year turned out a uniformed baseball team, which was supported solely by the school athletic association. The team was one of the best grammar school nines of the city, despite the fact it was beaten for the pennant by the fast Green school outfit. Out of 20 games played, the Lincoln won 17, a very creditable record for even professional teams.

Considering the fact that the squad was made up almost entirely of inexperienced players at the beginning of the season, five of the regular members of the team playing organized baseball for the first time, the record is unusually noteworthy. Nine out of the 11 regulars of the team have left school this year.

School league, defeating the Edsons at Spalding park for the first time in years and thus eliminating that team from the pennant race.

The Lincoln defeated the Washingtons in six out of seven games played and in the regularly scheduled league game between these two teams the Lincoln were the victors, 10 to 3. They defeated the Morris five times. The last game was played on the Morris grounds last Monday night and the score was 10 to 3 in the Lincoln's favor. The Badgers fell victim to the Chelmsford street organization, 15 to 1.

In the grammar school championship series the Lincoln won 2 and lost 2. They defeated the champion Greens, 5 to 0, in one game and lost to them, 11 to 6, in another. They defeated the Bartlett 24 to 7 in one game and lost to them, 2 to 7, in a close struggle. They defeated the Middlesex County Training school team, 8 to 4.

The star infielder of the team was Walter Regnier, who played shortstop

like a big leaguer. Carter and Lawless did good work on the mound, while Crowe, the first string catcher, was a hard worker and a good hitter. McCarthy at first base played a fine first base game than last season. Mortved at second, although a new player, improved steadily as the season progressed while McDowell and Riggs, outfielders, were both hard workers. Centerfield was played alternately by Carter and Lawless, the pitchers. Wells made a dependable third baseman this season and never blamed a defeat on the umpire. The young players were out to win, but they took the result, whatever it was, like good sports. The line lined up as follows: Crowe c, Carter and Lawless, p and c, McCarthy 1b, Mortved 2b, Regnier ss, Wells 3b, McDowell lf, Riggs rf, Snyder sub, and A. Lawler, manager.

ret could not continue the contest. Captain Milburn, leader of the American team, who was playing under a severe handicap on Saturday, due to an injury to his back in the preliminary games, profited by the rest which followed the opening game and was reported last night to be in splendid condition.

There was little optimism to be seen in today's forecast of the match, nearly all writers admitting that an American victory was very probable. Some sanguine critics still clung to the hope that the British team would provide a surprise and carry the polo match into the third game, but they were few in number.

WILLIE STARS WIN

"SHSH, IT'S A SECRET" WIFE OF DR. COX

Mysterious Heavyweights,

With Collars About Faces,

Train With Carp.

About 5 o'clock a big limousine stopped at the front gate and the chauffeur hailed Trainer Wilson and the latter came down and opened the gate. The limousine pulled into the camp and three heavyweights stepped from it. To conceal their identity, they pulled their coat collars about their faces and ran into the residence.

A few early birds who hung over the fence waited and watched. Soon they saw four men clad in bathrobes leave the back door and hasten behind the barn where Carpentier does his training. Noises sounding like the tattoo of drums upon a punching bag could be heard for a time. Then there was silence for 20 minutes. First one and then another of the robed figures filed into the house. The last appeared to be the challenger, himself. Trainer Wilson followed them carrying several pairs of boxing gloves.

Another half hour and the three heavyweights, still hiding their faces, entered the car and were whisked away.

Kingscott and Francis Gordon Lowe, who for half a score of years has been playing in excellent form during the present tournament, and maintained the phenomenon line he set on Monday by defeating C. E. Dixon easily yesterday.

Mrs. Mollie Rutherford Mallory of America, opponent Mrs. Arthur C. Gennard, Miss Schellbach of Germany, and Miss played against Miss Kathleen McKane.

The visitors will be Francis Outmet and Jesse Guilford. Although classed as "once brilliant stars" the two men are far from being in the also ran class, and a big gallery is expected to be out to witness the efforts of the top-notchers in negotiating the hazards of the new course for the first time.

HARVARD-YALE TEAMS MATCH
BOSTON, June 22.—Harvard and Yale met at Fenway today in the final match of the state lawn tennis championship tournament when R. Norris Williams 2nd, internationalist and former crimson captain, crossed raquets with Lawrence H. Rice, former Yale player, on the courts of the Longwood Cricket club. The tournament is the first in which Williams has competed for the title. Rice, who defeated the playing coach champion, Collier Cancer yesterday, was a finalist in 1915.

Says Gratitude Won't Permit Her To Remain Silent About Tanlac—

Gains 18 lbs.—Health Restored

Mrs. T. B. Cox, wife of Dr. T. B. Cox, a prominent dentist, residing at 39 Warwick street, Boston, is now an ardent champion of the merits of Tanlac.

While discussing Tanlac, which has been so beneficial to her, Mrs. Cox seemed profoundly grateful and in commenting on her improved condition, said:

"I feel that I would be ungrateful and neglectful of my duty if I did not tell suffering humanity what Tanlac has done for me. Why, at the time I began taking it, I only weighed one hundred and eight pounds. I had fallen off from one hundred and fifty-five and was so thin that my clothes just hung on me like a sack. But Tanlac is rapidly building me up to my normal weight and strength, as I now weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds, having gained eighteen pounds on four bottles."

"My health had been very poor for two years and there were times when it seemed like everything allied me. I had no appetite and my stomach was in such a wretched condition that my food seemed to do me harm instead of good. I had such a bloated, stuffed feeling after eating I could scarcely breathe and the pains in the pit of my stomach were so severe I could not stand up straight. For two months at one time I thought I couldn't live. My nerves were all undone and many times I even closed my eyes in sleep. Just before I got Tanlac I was looking so run-down, thin and frail that many of my friends did not know me on first sight."

"Well, my hopes of recovery were about all gone when I saw Tanlac so highly praised and concluded to see if it would help me. I began to feel better almost immediately and my husband and myself are both astonished at the results. I have received from the four bottles. My stomach acts like a new one, my appetite is so generous I can hardly eat enough to satisfy me, and I am feeling like a different person. My nerves are so calm that I sleep every night like a child. I am now an accompanist in my church and my friends are all congratulating me on how well I look. Dr. Cox has taken Tanlac, too, with splendid results and we are always praising it to someone. It is just grand."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass.; W. D. Ellis, Chelmsford Center, and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

BABY SAILS 3000 MILES THROUGH AIR

LORRAINE ERICSON

BY ALICE ROHE
NEW YORK, June 22.—Miss Lorraine Ericson is just a dear little girl of 20 months, who holds the world's record as an aeroplane commander. Also, she's the first aero-pramutator baby in the country, the champion long-distance rubber-necker of New York City and a whole lot of other things connected with airships.

Lorraine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Firth G. Ericson of Toronto, Can. She was born in New York and she was brought to her native city by her parents the other day for the sole purpose of sight-seeing and of taking a flight in a flying boat.

Daddy Ericson is prominent in the airplane business. He was connected with the Imperial Air Force during the war and now is the representative of the Aeromarine plane in Canada.

When she was a year-old her mother thought she had swallowed a button and flew 35 miles with her to the nearest doctor. Since that day she isn't contented on land.

BRITISH POLOISTS WITH BACKS TO THE WALL

LONDON, June 22.—(By The Associated Press)—Great Britain's polo team, which is defending the international cup, stood with its back to the wall at the Harringham club field today to meet the onslaught of the American challengers who swept through the British ranks to victory in the first game last Saturday. The British players were silent after Saturday's game, admitting the superiority of the Americans in that contest, but there was an air of quiet determination which indicated they would bend every effort to prevent the Americans "getting the jump" on them today.

Reports were current last night that Major "Rattle" Barrett, the No. 2, on the British team was suffering from an injured hand and might not be able to play today. Lord Dalmeida was ready to step into his place in case Major Barrett could not continue the contest. Captain Milburn, leader of the American team, who was playing under a severe handicap on Saturday, due to an injury to his back in the preliminary games, profited by the rest which followed the opening game and was reported last night to be in splendid condition.

There was little optimism to be seen in today's forecast of the match, nearly all writers admitting that an American victory was very probable. Some sanguine critics still clung to the hope that the British team would provide a surprise and carry the polo match into the third game, but they were few in number.

The Willie Stars defeated the All Stars Sunday afternoon on the South common, 15 to 5. The pitching of Ritchie and holding of Davey at shortstop were features. The Willie Stars have defeated such teams as the Universals, the Marions, the Silestas and the Barons. They would like to hear from any 15-16 year old team in the city. Answer through this paper or call 1322-W.

BOULEVARD DANCE HALL

Petition for Dance Pavilion
License Commission

The great question of the Pawtucket boulevard dance pavilion has apparently been settled for another year, and in the same manner. That is to say, the Board of License Commissioners has denied their petition for a license. The licensing commission made public this decision last evening at their regular weekly meeting, and the applicants were formally granted permission to withdraw. A vote of 10 to 0 was taken, and the decision was rendered. The board of license commissioners, after a long session, rendered a decision similar to that of a year ago.

The hearings and letters, in renewing their efforts to secure a permit this year, pointed out that the erection of the dance hall involved the investment of $20,000 of their capital. They offered to open the resort on a two weeks' trial, and professed a readiness to close it at the conclusion of that term should the demonstrators found their fears justified. These promises did not mollify those who objected to the license, and the board, after a long session, rendered a decision similar to that of a year ago.

The commission was petitioned last evening by the Retail Jewellers' association, to regulate the hours of operation of jewelry stores in this city. On June 18 a state law went into effect, conferring this power upon the members of the board. A preliminary discussion of the matter of licensing amusements and other booths and features, for the carnival on the South common, during the Independence Day season, also was held, although that action will not be taken until later. A number of petitions for minor permits were acted upon, and the permits conferred.

CHARGE IS DISMISSED

Inman Found Not Guilty of Manslaughter—Guilty on Other Counts

Samuel W. Inman, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death, on April 14, of Hugh McGrogan, was found not guilty this morning, by Judge Enright, in the police court, and the case dismissed. On two other counts, however, charging violation of the motor vehicle laws, a finding of guilty was made, and a total fine of $50 was levied. Inman declared himself unable to pay, and requested an extension of time, but this was denied by the court.

"I have given this matter much consideration," and thought," stated Judge Enright, in relation to the manslaughter charge, "and have conferred with other justices of this court. But while I agree with Judge Pickman that there was a certain amount of criminal negligence, the evidence is not sufficient to send this man before the grand jury on a manslaughter charge."

After the defendant's arrest, he was released on surety of $200 to await a hearing subsequent to the request report being filed. However, he failed to appear when his case was called, and was later taken into custody at Portland, Me., on the basis of a capias warrant, after he had been defaulted in the local court. He was brought back to Lowell and sent to the house of correction to wait for the calling of his case, as his surety was surrendered. In the interim, Judge Pickman submitted an inquest finding which stated that there was criminal negligence shown in the judgment of the court.

"No probable cause" was, however, Judge Enright's decision this morning. The other counts against Inman, were operating without a license and operating without his vehicle being registered. On these a finding of guilty was made, and $25 was the assessment on each count. Counsel for the McGrogan family was present in the court room, and was informed by Judge Enright that the defendant was intoxicated at the time of the accident in which McGrogan met his death.

WITH THE FIREMEN

Back Porch and Dump Fire in Chelmsford Street

A back-porch fire called out the local apparatus at 10:05 o'clock, this morning. A house at 105 Chelmsford street was the scene of the conflagration, which the fire department authorities attribute to boys. Fifteen minutes' work succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

At 12:30 p. m., a telephone alarm came in concerning a dump fire on Chelmsford street, and apparatus responded.

WAS ALL RIGHT IN THE OLDEN DAYS

"He used to drink beer before prohibition, and then he was all right. But now he drinks kielbasa," declared the wife of Frank Bilewski, who was in the police court this morning on charges of assault and battery upon her. He drew a two months' house of correction sentence, but this was suspended and he was given one more chance to behave himself. "Stop drinking and save your money," was Judge Enright's advice to the defendant, whom he warned that another complaint of abuse made by his wife would result in a sure term in confinement.

LOWELL MAN APPOINTED BAIL COMMISSIONER

To a Lowell man, John B. Curtin, prominent in local labor union circles, has come the distinction of being the first individual to be appointed a bail commissioner by the chief justice and associate justices of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Curtin has just received notification of his appointment. Formerly, the bail commissioners were named by the governor and approved by the executive council, but under the state department reorganization this official devolves on the justices of the superior court. Mr. Curtin's appointment is certified to by Chief Justice John A. Allen and the various associate justices of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Curtin is a former vice president of the Lowell Trades & Labor council, president of the Massachusetts State Branch of Barbers, past dictator of the Lowell lodge, 615, Local Order of Moose, and former president of the Lowell Barbers' union. He lives at 31 Albion st. Mr. Curtin has also served as secretary of the street railway home rule committee.

HELD ENTERTAINMENT IN COLLEGE HALL

The pupils of the lower grades of St. Joseph's convent in Moody street, which is under the direction of the Grey Nuns of the Cross, held a delightful entertainment in St. Joseph's college hall in Merrimack street, this forenoon. The event was in honor of the pastor of the parish, Very Rev. E. J. Turcotte, O.M.I., who was presented a large bouquet as a token of esteem.

The large hall was filled to the doors with little girls, who were attended by their teachers, and present also besides the pastor were Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I., and Rev. Augustin Gratton, O.M.I. The program was as follows:

Overture, duet, "Stand by the Flag," Misses M. Turcotte and C. Paquette; choral, "Chant de Fete," pupils of the third grade; distribution of prizes to pupils of second grade; recitation, "Le Lieve," Leo Ducharme, Sue, "Little Curry Head March," Misses A. Chiquetto and J. Camden; distribution of prizes to pupils of third grade; recitation, "Reconnaisance," boys from the sisters' school; duet, "Jolly Companion," Misses D. Matte and E. Perron; recitation, "L'Eche," the boys of the school; remarks, Very Rev. E. J. Turcotte. The graduation exercises of the school will be held Thursday evening, in the college hall.

Mrs. Mallory Defeats Mrs. Green

WIMBLEDON, June 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, American women's singles tennis champion, defeated Mrs. Arthur C. Green, 6-3, 6-2, in today's round of the British grass court championship tournament.

Blair To Act On Beer Regulations

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Announcing today that he would consider as soon as possible regulations permitting the use of beer for medical purposes, Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair said he did not believe the bureau should wait indefinitely on congressional action on anti-beer legislation. The beer regulations are now before Mr. Blair.

GREEN SCHOOL OUTING AT REVERE BEACH

About 60 boys and girls of the Green school, comprising the graduates and members of the eighth grade, were made happy today, when they were entertained at an outing at Revere beach by the principal and teachers of the school. The group of merry-makers left the school in Merrimack street in an automobile truck shortly after 9 o'clock this morning.

As soon as the shore was reached the first number was a "dip" in the refreshing waves. Later sports were carried out on the beach and at noon a bountiful basket dinner was enjoyed. The afternoon was taken up with sight-seeing trips along the beach, games and other amusements. The party was in charge of the principal, Miss Elizabeth Provender, assisted by Misses Barrows and Dowd of the teaching staff.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the baseball team of the school were entertained at a banquet held in the school hall in recognition of their efficient work in winning the silver cup of the city's grammar school league. Coach William McKenzie presided over the festivities and he was loud in his praise for the excellent showing made by the boys during the league season. Miss Provender also addressed the boys and complimented them for the success achieved and commented upon the team's success in winning sixteen out of seventeen games played. The team was composed of the following: Capt. Kokinacos, Pappas, Monthleau, Coalter, Poudrier, Dupont, Patton, Belanger and McDonough.

"In reply to that," said Mr. Wells, "the chamber of commerce is not primarily responsible for the impending special election. The municipal council had several opportunities to avoid the special election. If it had accepted the first recommendations of the chamber of commerce, made some time ago, asking that contract paving be tried out here on the Chelmsford street job, there would probably be no need for a special election. However, the council ignored our first recommendations by filing them. We then resorted to the method provided by the charter to make the council take cognizance of our recommendations."

An Aggressive Campaign
"We intend to wage an aggressive campaign to put our petition over at the coming election," continued Mr. Wells.
"Of course, we have not had time to make any definite arrangements yet, but we expect to have an organization perfected to further the interests of the petition and to urge the voters to favor the contract method on our street work."

Mr. Wells said that an unfortunate phrase had crept into the discussion of the chamber's petition. That is "contract labor," he said. That phrase gives the impression, the secretary maintained, that the street work here is to be done entirely by outsiders brought in by contractors. That is not so, he says, because in its petition, the chamber stipulates that the city council shall have the right to designate in its contracts that Lowell residents shall be employed as far as possible in whatever street work is done here.

Mr. Wells further stated that should it happen that the contract street construction method was accepted by the voters and after a tryout, it was found

A. F. of L. Defeats Boycott Resolution

DENVER, Colo., June 22.—Irish sympathizers supporting a resolution calling for a boycott against British goods were overwhelmingly defeated today in an attempt to have the convention overthrow a ruling made by President Samuel Gompers, which prevented reconsideration of their proposal.

"The contractors were in collusion, the chamber of commerce would be the first to step into the ring to get signatures to have this method rescinded."

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty wedding took place this morning at St. Louis church when Mr. Israel Robarge and Miss Irene Ducharme were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock by Rev. E. J. Vincent. The bride wore white crepe de chine with veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Mr. George Paquette, while the groom's witness was Mr. Charles Robarge. During the mass appropriate hymns were sung by the Children of Mary sodality choir, solos being sustained by Mrs. Chalfoux, Miss Soutard and Mr. Ducharme. Miss Ida Monaghan presiding at the organ. At the close of the mass a wedding breakfast was served at the home of
